Real Life Dime Novel.
Sales Tax Looms.
$30,000 a Week Girl.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ANOTHER trauer-fest in Wall Street yesterday. Wheat, as you will surmise, "hit a new low." One big railroad neglected to pay a dividend.

You can buy excellent and safe stocks now that will pay you from 7 to 10 per cent on your money. Nobody buys them. By and by when they rise to unsafe prices and pay 2 per cent or less on the investment, everybody will buy them.

Include among the list of mirages and "wills-o'-the-wisp" our hope of getting back 10,000,000,000 from Europe. Already it is said we "may" consent to cut down the amount we are to get if the European nations will cut down the reparations from Germany.

JOYFUL NEWS comes that China will take "a great deal more than 15,000,000 bushels of our wheat for famine relief perhaps 50,000,000 bushels."

China will pay us with long time notes, and those notes probably later will be added to our mirage-collection.

Perhaps the Lord will give us credit, for helping the starving.

Charles M. Rosenthal, young broker, was kidnaped. $100,000 demanded. He won $50,000 from his kidnapers at poker, got their I. O. U.'s reducing the ransom to $50,000, which his mother paid. The kidnaping "bait" was a "pretty young woman of light complexion, found living with a big, very big black Negro." She was of Negro blood.

When the kidnaped young man won $50,000 at poker two kidnapers voted to shoot him. Numbers on the ransom bills caught the kidnapers, the light-colored young lady, and recovered $16,330 of the ransom.

Is not that a super-dime novel?

STOREKEEPERS WHO have have trouble enough already, to put it mildly, are warned to prepare for a sales tax. Senators Smoot and Watson, who know about national finances, agree that the tax must go through because a deficit of $1,500,000,000 faces this country for 1932.

Some say, "Let those that haave it, pay," forgetting that many of the "those that HAVE it," are now changed to the "those that once HAD it."

MOTION PICTURES exhibitors say "Hollywood should be deflated," whatever that means, and object, especially, to the salary of one young picture lady, supposed to get $30,000 a week. Perhaps she doesn't get so much, but if she does get it, she earns it.

Exhibitors want pictures that will fill theaters. If any actor can be worth $30,000 a week, everybody should be grateful.

CHEERFUL NEWS from Rome. Pope Pius XI and Mussolini, the powerful, agree on a settlement of the "Catholic Action" difficulty.

Fifteen thousand church clubs will now reopen, forbidden, however, to engage in political activities, or even to have classes for sports. All that is reserved for Mussolini's young people.

However, each side feels it has won, which indicates that the settlement is probably fair.

The process sounds like "Alice in Wonderland," including castor oil, ethylene, glycol, carbon, hydrogen, oxygen.

Synthetic silk is said to be "at least as good as real silk," and silk worms, dropped into hot water to make their cocoons unwind, will be glad to hear that. When will the duPonts announce "synthetic rubber," at $20 a ton?

THE PROGRESSIVE Pullman company, on its "Sportsmen's train" of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, installs foot rests for travelers. They ride comfortably, with feet raised, legs stretched out, leaning back, according to the American habit.

A good idea. Our great American trouble is heart disease, and the Pullman foot rest will help that. When your feet are up and you lean back, the blood flows horizontally, instead of perpendicularly, and the strain on your heart is less.

Do your thinking and working lying down if you can, especially in old age.

BULLETIN.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 3.—The body found in West Fork River near Shinnston late this afternoon, believed to have been another victim of Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, alleged slayer of two women and three children, was identified as that of Tom Boski, 42, a coal miner.

Shinnston police said he had been killed in a fight last week.

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 3.—While local authorities today pieced together bit by bit the amazing career of West Virginia's alleged mail order Bluebeard, Harry F. Powers, charged with slaying two women and three children, federal narcotic agents pursued a separate line of investigation that may uncover a motive for the killings.

The government officers, sent here yesterday upon orders of the Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington, despite repeated denials, were understood to be working "under cover," seeking to smash a gigantic ring with which the mail-order Romeo is believed to have had connections. The opinion has been expressed that the alleged love butcher might have been an occasional user of heroin, a drug superinducing violent reactions.

CAREER TRACED

Connellsville, Pa., long has been known as a distributing center in the dope traffic here. Powers' visits to that place are being scrutinized by the federal agents who are making the investigation here.

Meanwhile the chain bridging the gap in Powers' life from 1924, when under the name Joe Gildaw, or Gildow, at Miller, S. D., until 1927, when he came here under the name Powers and married Luella Strother, was being forged, link by link, as local authorities pieced together reports of his activities in various parts of the country.

From many different sections of the country have come requests to local police for assistance in clearing up mysterious disappearances of women. In New York yesterday, it was reported, two

Six Fliers Killed, 12 Hurt in Brazil Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 3.—(INS)—Six airmen were reported killed and 12 injured today when two Italian seaplanes recently purchased by the Brazilian government crashed in mid-air over a naval flying field near here. The planes were purchased after Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian air minister, led a squadron of 14 Italian machines over the Atlantic to Brazil.

France Masters Europe; Customs Pact Abandoned

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The proposed Austro-German customs pact is dead. France's "golden bullets" have conquered Europe.

What Napoleon's famous legions and the sharp-speaking French 75's in the World War were unable to achieve has now been achieved by the golden messengers from the French treasury in the form of loans to other European countries. And these loans, while costing France nothing from her natural resources, are earning handsome revenues for her as well.

French supremacy is achieved at a moment when the larger part of the western world is facing economic ruin. This supremacy is greater than Napoleon's ever was, and is the most outstanding political fact of Europe today.

DOMINATES EUROPE

France dominates the continent completely. More, what Napoleon never was able to achieve, France now has accomplished: the virtual elimination of Great Britain as the directing political force in European affairs. Britain is now

AMATEUR GOLF DUELS CLOSE

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Lester Bolstad, of St. Paul, former public links champion, Francis Ouimet, of Boston, amateur champion 17 years ago; Jack Westland, Chicago district champion, and Maurice McCarthy, Jr., of New York, were leading at the 18-hole mark in the 36-hole quarter-final round matches in the national amateur golf tournament here today.

Rallying after being 2 down at the turn, Bolstad finished the morning round 2 up on Billy Howell, of Richmond, 19-year-old Virginia state champion.

Paul Jackson, of Kansas City, proved no match for Ouimet and went to lunch 6 down. The Boston veteran had a medal score of 74.

Arthur (Dicky) Yates, of Rochester, N. Y., finished the first nine 1 up on Westland, but was 1 down after 18.

McCarthy shot the most sensational golf of the quarter-finals in piling up a 7 up lead on Fay Coleman, of Los Angeles. He had a medal score of 72, only one over par.

Mother of Pirates' Treasurer Marries

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Dr. Edwin Zugsmith and Mrs. Edward Benswanger, mother of William E. Benswanger, treasurer of the Pittsburgh baseball club. The ceremony was performed Tuesday by Rabbi B. B. Glazer, of the Rodef Shalom Temple at the home of Mrs. Benswanger in the Fairfax Apartments. The ceremony was attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Benswanger and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Benswanger. After an eastern trip, Dr. and Mrs. Zugsmith will reside in Woodmont street.

PUPILS STILL STRIKE AT 2 SCHOOLS

Walkout Continues in Fight For Free Trolley Rides; Council Appeal Planned

The "strike" of pupils of the Gladstone Junior High School, Hazelwood, and the Taylor Allderdice High School, Squirrel Hill, protesting a Board of Public Education decision to pay transportation one way only, continued today with few defections in their ranks.

No law compels the board to furnish transportation to school children as it has been doing until recently in the Hays and Lincoln Place districts, officials of the board said today. They declared the board may pay all, part or none of the fare.

Principal John W. Anthony, of the Gladstone School, said 90 students were out. Yesterday 66 were out.

Letters are being sent by the committee to individual members of the board, asking that they hold a special meeting as soon as possible to iron out the situation.

Members of the Hays committee plan to visit City Council in the near future to ask, in the event the board holds to its present stand, to have the city furnish the other half fare.

A meeting, in which opinion was divided, was held last night in Hays school, with parents of the striking children attending. A motion to continue the strike regardless of conditions failed to meet approval.

Walter Collins, member of the committee, said that he had a promise from school officials to furnish a free lunch to any of the children that could not afford to pay the fare and lunch as well.

James King, another member, urged that the parents be temperate with the board although he understood that a number of children would have to stop school, their parents not being able to make the sacrifice.

Steel Sinks To New Bear Market Low

Under a barrage of unfavorable news developments, United States Steel common today broke through its previous low level for the bear market, selling at 82⅞. The previous low was 83⅛.

Steel led the general market in the downturn.

A series of dividend reductions and omissions followed by drastic breaks averaging 25 points on the first day of trading on the reopened Berlin Boerse were the major factors in undermining confidence in stock prices in Wall street.

Pessimistic stories on the prospects for the steel business over the balance of the year caused a preliminary run to cover by bull operators yesterday. The bears quickly followed up their advantage on the publication of further bad news today.

The Dow, Jones average of 20 rail stocks broke through its previous low for the depression early in the afternoon.

Taxi Driver Hangs Self in Jail Cell

George Shaw, 38, of 7143 Kedron street, a taxicab driver, hanged himself in a cell in the County Jail early today, according to a report to the Coroner's office. He was discovered by Albert Shore, a guard, who said he had used his belt.

Shaw was sent to jail Tuesday by Justice of the Peace O. A. Winneberg to await trial on a charge of entering a building to commit a felony.

Big Collection Frees Town of '32 Taxes

SIDNEY, Ind., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Some good news came out of this town today.

The Town Board found that so much money was collected for taxes this fall that the amount will be more than enough to care for everything in 1932. Therefore no tax was levied for 1932.

Pershing Returns, Awaits Petain Visit

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—John J. Pershing, who today returned from Europe on the Leviathan, said work of the Battle Monuments Commission, of which he is chairman, is progressing rapidly.

The former chief of the American Expeditionary Forces in the World War, who is writing his autobiography, said he looked forward to welcoming Marshal Petain, French war hero, soon coming here.

Three Lives Claimed By Poison Alcohol

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—(AP)—With three dead and one dangerously ill as the result of drinking what the police said was poison alcohol, authorities sought today to learn the source of the liquor.

The dead were William W. Weller, a cook; Charles Clark, mechanic, and Ray Peters, also a mechanic. Alfred W. Maltby was near death in a hospital.

Board's Plea to Governor Brings State Police Here; Arrests Made in Disputes

More than a score of state police arrived in Pittsburgh today on order of Gov. Pinchot to patrol registration booths as the first registration period from 8 to 11 a. m. passed with minor disturbances and a heavy registration.

The second period is from 5 to 11 p. m.

This was the first time state troopers had ever been detailed on such duty. The order sending them here to cruise the entire city against possible fraud followed a telegram sent to the Governor by John K. Morrow, chairman of the Registration Board, appealing for aid in providing a "clean registration." No co-operation was being received from local police, he declared.

POLICE ASSIGNED

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh said he had detailed not more than two patrolmen as reserves to each police station as a precaution against trouble. Radio scout cars were also keeping in close touch with developments at registration places, he said.

Public Safety Director James M. Clark said while he believed presence of state police here "unnecessary," Pittsburgh police would co-operate with them, He added:

"I am for an honest registration and if state police will guarantee that their presence here will be well worth while."

Morrow's telegram to the Governor follows:

"Feeling that unless we have adequate protection for the registrars we have appointed, to give a clean registration as directed by you, and receiving no co-operation from local police agencies, we urgently request that you send us state

POLL TAX ORDER ISSUED BY GRAY

Judge James H. Gray today handed down an order in the assessment controversy involving thousands of assessments on extra lists.

The court ordered the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes to certify immediately to the delinquent tax collector the names of all persons assessed for poll tax on which no tax appears to have been paid to the County Treasurer at the close of business August 31, 1931.

Yesterday Judge Gray ruled that payments of poll tax on affidavits, without a record having been made by the tax board and certified to the treasurer, were made illegally, but since he did not specifically declare them invalid in his order today, it was being assumed generally that they will stand as valid.

Possibility of an attack on the extra assessments on the basis of Judge Gray's opinion, was pointed out.

The tax board announced that it would first certify to the delinquent tax collector 8,296 names of persons assessed September 1 and 2, then those who had been placed on assessment lists previously, but had not paid the poll tax. Later the entire assessment will be certified to the County Treasurer and County Controller.

KLINE WORRIES JUDGES' SLATE

By MARK SHIELDS

Mayor Kline's attitude toward the judicial campaign is causing considerable perturbation among candidates for the seven places on Common Pleas bench, particularly the seven sitting judges running as a "slate." It is no secret that a number of these judges are hoping for Kline indorsement, without which their supporters admit their plight is not hopeful.

The Mayor, however, is giving evidence of support for only one judicial candidate, his city solicitor, Charles A. Waldschmidt. Backing of Waldschmidt, and possible leaning to at least one other candidate not on the slate, means a blow to the sitting combination which may extend beyond the loss of votes for one or two occupants of the bench. In an effort to elect Waldschmidt, the Mayor may instruct his city

Kline and Succop Ready For Joint Trial

Mayor Charles H. Kline and his deposed Director of Supplies, Bertram L. Succop, indicted jointly on charges of misdemeanor and malfeasance in office, following the food scandal, are ready to stand trial together.

This became known, following a conference between Attorneys Charles B. Prichard and Edward G. Coll representing the Mayor and Attorney E. L. Kearns of counsel for Succop. They have been planning for the trial. Attorney Prichard, leading counsel for the Mayor, said today. Prichard declared:

"We are ready to go to trial any day District Attorney Andrew T. Park says. As the Mayor and Succop were indicted jointly, we expect they will be tried jointly. However, that is for the District Attorney to say."

Park said Tuesday he expected to call Mayor Kline and Succop for trial, "between now and next Christmas."

Counsel in the case are of opinion that Mayor Kline and Succop will not be called for trial until November. Following the primaries Park expects to take a rest.

It is admitted it will take considerable time for the District Attorney's office to prepare the case. Anyhow Prichard said today:

Irvin, Ex-Messenger, Rises To High U. S. Steel Post

While "Jim" Farrell was "swinging an anchor" and doing laboring work in the mills of Sharon some years ago, "Bill" Irvin was running messages at 10 cents a message in the not-far-off town of Indiana, Pa. Both were going through the "University of Hard Knocks."

Today, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, the world's largest, sent a message to William A. Irvin, in the Frick Building, to come on to New York and be vice president of the corporation.

CONGRATULATIONS FLOOD IN

Congratulations were flooding into the Irvin office in the Frick biuilding, where Irvin, vice president of the American Sheet and Tin Plate, was beaming with the thought that he had received "his diploma."

Questioned about his start, he said it was humble—that his father had been a contractor; that he worked his way. He was asked:

"Are you a university man?"

He replied:

"Yes, the university of hard knocks."

Friends explained and he agreed with them that he as a telegram boy, learned to send the Morse code, became a telegrapher, ticket agent, shipping clerk and then freight agent on his way up. He attended night school at Indian State Normal School.

He added:

"I don't know how soon I will move to New York and take up my duties there, but it will be in the near future."

Mr. Irvin is married and has five children. He has been with the American Sheet and Tinplate Company since it took over the American Sheet Steel Company, a concern he joined in 1900.

HOOVER CONSIDERS MORE TAXES OR BONDS AS DEBT GROWS

GOVERNMENT'S OBLIGATIONS 16 BILLIONS

Drastic Cut in Expenditures Likely; Deficit for This Year Approximates Billion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The government is confronted by a rapidly increasing Treasury deficit and the administration and its followers are seeking some means of bringing about economies.

As the national debt climbs upward to $16,000,000,000 [illegible] dollars [illegible] Hoover [illegible] tax [illegible] the problem.

BONDS OVERSUBSCRIBED

[illegible] new financing [illegible] met with a ready response. [illegible] the Treasury has given [illegible] ing to [illegible] cutting [illegible] deficit [illegible] that for the same [illegible] last year.

TO CUT EXPENDITURES

The president's drive to cut expenditures for the next fiscal year would be given practically was made by Chairman Wood of the House Appropriations Committee. His group originates all the appropriation bills providing funds for government operations.

The Indiana Representative said slashes would be made in expenditures for the Army and Navy and expressed the hope the Farm Board would not make its additional funds of $150,000,000 already having been awarded.

SOBER SPENDING

Wood declared that while the Navy be built up to the London naval treaty limits it would have nothing to do. For some time the Indiana has demanded curtailment of demands for appropriations and he declared:

"When the people were spending like drunkards, they didn't object to the government spending the same way. Now that the people have begun to spend seriously and soberly the government had better to begin to spend that way."

During the first two years of the Hoover administration, Congress appropriated about $16,000,000,000 or nearly $2,000,000,000 in excess of any two years appropriations since the World War period. The increase was due largely to relief, highway construction projects including a vastly expanded public buildings program.

The deficit of $903,000,000 for the fiscal year ending July 1 was added to the national debt largely through long-term bond issues.

BUSINESS MEN PUSH JOB DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The unemployment problem was tackled today by representatives of American industry through a committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The committee headed by Henry I. Harriman of Boston, met at the chamber headquarters here to draft a report on the basis of many months of investigation.

Meanwhile, the chamber's first president, Harris A. Wheeler, Chicago banker, was organizing a committee under President Hoover's unemployment relief organization to find means of increasing employment.

Wheeler was appointed yesterday by Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, as chairman of the committee on employment plans and suggestions.

police to guarantee Pittsburgh a clean registration."

Less than two hours later several automobiles carrying troopers rolled up to the Court House and reported to the Board of Registration Commissioners.

While the state officers will guard against rioting or disturbance, the law forbids them as well as city police from patrolling nearer than 100 feet of the registration places.

A near-riot occurred at the polling place of the Fourth district, Third ward, in the Franklin School, Hare and Logan streets following an argument between Negroes outside the registration booth. More than 100 persons milled around the polling place as police arrived and arrested Oscar Train, 32, Negro, of 102 Fullerton street. He was taken to Center Avenue station, where police said he had been attempting to register illegally.

CALLED BEFORE BOARD

The registrars of this district had been hailed before the Board of Registration previously after a dispute between Lena Abell and Mary Johnson, Negroes, Republican registrars, and Abe Miller and Ann Goldberg, Democratic members. The former were said to have refused to turn over one book to the Democratic members to which they were entitled. The Registration Board settled the squabble and the registrars proceeded to work.

Registration was delayed for an hour and a half.

Police were summoned to the registration booth in the Kruger House, Larimer avenue and Ashley street, Third District of the Twelfth Ward, they reported, after an argument arose when Miss Josephine Lawler, a registrar, had demanded that Henry Haller, residing nearby, produce his naturalization papers. He had lived in the county since he was a child, he said, but his father had naturalization papers. He showed these and the board was satisfied.

PAPERS DEMANDED

The Registration Board [illegible] named before the registrars of the Fourth District, Second Ward (Hara School, Twenty-fifth and Sims), that registrars were a detriment. Eight residents protested that the registrars were compelling the persons to produce naturalization papers. Miss Sophie Nevin, Republican registrar, told the board:

"I have lived in that district for a long time. I know that many of those trying to register do not live in the ward and I will continue to challenge them if I am hailed in here every hour."

The registrars were sent back to the polling place with instructions not to be arbitrary and detailing an investigator to ascertain the right of occupants of a rooming house to be registered.

ANSWER RIOT CALL

Police answered a riot call to the polling place of the Ninth District, Third Ward, in the Letsche School, Bedford avenue, but made no arrests. They reported Saul Ackerman said to be a political leader of the district, had accused a Negro of bringing another Negro from Woodlawn, Pa., to register.

An investigation of reports reaching the Registration Board today revealed that agents of Paul Walsh, candidate for Constable in the First Ward, had requested the proprietor of a Forbes street rooming house to remove a political poster of Constable Jack Schneider from his window and replace it with one of Walsh's. When he complied, he was told he would not need a rooming house license, the proprietor said. He said he believed the men were city detectives.

"GHOST VOTERS" LISTED

Unofficial observers of the final rush of voters to be assessed yesterday reported to Peter Connors, chief investigator for the Registration Commission, the following enrollments in the First Ward which they said were phantoms:

33 Hooper street, house vacant until two weeks ago, 12 assessed in last 60 days.

CANNERY READY MONDAY TO AID NEEDY

Committee to Get Relief Project Under Way; Expert Workers Give Services

With the donation of a complete canning factory, which occupies half a city block, plans were being completed today by the Surplus for the Needy Committee to begin operation Monday on its project to supply surplus fruits and vegetables to the needy of the Pittsburgh district.

The cannery is the former Lee Chattaway Jacobs plant at 1455 Spring Garden avenue. All of the equipment in it has been donated by Jacob Horne, Samuel Levine and Max Hollander, who recently purchased it from a receiver. Irwin Falck, of the Falck Soap Company, owner of the building, has donated it for the season.

CANNERS DONATE SERVICES

The committee, under the leadership of Attorney Harry I. Miller, one of the founders of the Helping Hand, and the Rev. Alexander Gibson, a director of the organization, will have the services of expert canners, donated by leading canning companies in the district.

Solicitation has already begun for fruits, vegetables, sugar, spices and cans. Special canning equipment will also be installed at 247 Water street, it was announced, where crops which farmers are unable to sell will be collected.

SUPERVISION BY RED CROSS

The organization has made plans to provide 5,000 needy families in the Pittsburgh district with five cans of vegetables each week over a period of 32 weeks. The organization will direct the presentation of the excess farm products in compliance with the appeal made by the President's Emergency Committee on Employment.

School kitchens of the district are to be placed under the supervision of the Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross, of which A. K. Oliver is chairman. The chapter will oversee the work of canning the produce.

A call for trucks has been issued by the committee. These will be used for collection and distribution of the products to the needy.

200,000 Bu. Peaches Offered to Pickers

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 3.—An estimated 200,000 bushels of prime Alberta peaches are being left in the orchards unharvested, by growers here and in the Timberville (Va.) section, according to Felix J. Schneiderhan, director of the University Experiment Farm at Kearneysville, near here. Growers here opened their orchards to all who will pick their fruit at a nominal charge or entirely gratis. The commercial market ranged between 50 cents and 80 cents per bushel, but broke heavily as West Virginia peaches became ready for the market.

STIMSON BACK, SEES NEW ERA

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A new spirit of conciliation and good will between the nations of Europe has launched the Old World upon an "enlightened era," Col. Henry L. Stimson, United States Secretary of State, declared upon his return to New York today after a long series of conferences with European statesmen.

The new spirit, he said, was much in evidence during the seven-power economic conference in London assembled by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald to find a way of alleviating Germany's economic difficulties.

Stimson said:

"I think there is now good reason to believe that the European statesmen, taking advantage of the respite granted by Mr. Hoover's moratorium as well as the recommendations of the London conference, are beginning gradually to lay the foundation of political good will, upon which a lasting structure of peace and economic prosperity can finally be rested."

Doubled Income Tax Decreed by Hungary

BUDAPEST, Sept. 3.—(INS)—A 100 per cent increase in the income tax was announced by the Hungarian government today. The government also imposed a 25 per cent sugar tax and appointed a "financial censor" to open all outgoing mail to prevent export of money.

FRANCE MASTER OF EUROPE

The power of France is felt even in Washington, for alone among the nations of Europe, France dickered with President Hoover on terms under which she would adhere to the Hoover debt moratorium plan, and exacted practically her own terms.

The only shadow falling athwart the French triumph is Russia. This is not the first time the Frenchmen have seen the Russian shadow, but this time it is in the shape of Bolshevism, which is threatening to overflow the continent and, in the opinion of some political observers, is already lapping at the shores of England.

ABANDON PACT

The crown of French triumph was set at Geneva today when foreign Minister Curtius, of Germany, and Foreign Minister Schober, of Austria, prostrated themselves before their new master and announced their abandonment of the proposed customs pact. This crushed the last remaining hopes of Germany for erecting a new "Central Europa" which was intended to be a vast economic bloc under German domination. Curtius' and Schober's announcement means the collapse of Germany's final attempt to defy France in the Hague Court.

By the same token France has checked the ambitious plan of Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, to revive the old Roman empire and erect his own continental system with Hungary as the cornerstone. France is the banker of Europe, and at France's bidding Hungary was forced to bury her hatred for France, turn out of office the hostile Premier Bethlen and install the friendly Count Karolyi, who is now discovering some "undeniably similar traits" between Frenchmen and Hungarians.

France Fights U. S. Plan to Pay Germany $9,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(INS)—France today was the sole obstacle among the powers to a plan for the United States to pay immediately to Germany $9,000,000 on account of adjudicated private claims with another $9,000,000 to follow shortly, the State Department revealed today.

The United States owes Germany $18,000,000 and Germany owes claimants in this country $9,000,000.

Acting Secretary of State Castle revealed that Ambassador Edge at Paris, has been carrying on conversations with Premier Laval seeking French permission for both American and German payments to go forward immediately. Laval has not agreed, although the other powers signatory to The Hague agreement on the Young plan have agreed. Castle said Edge did not hold out much hope of getting the French to agree.

BANK THIEF'S ACCOMPLICES SOUGHT

'Penny-Pincher' Employe Revealed as Plunger on Embezzled $2,000,000

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Investigators continued today to delve into the $2,200,000 embezzlement in bonds from the Continental-Illinois Bank by Walter E. Wolf, a penny-pincher in his home but a dizzy plunger in grain market speculations.

The investigation was a two-headed one, two groups, the bank and Lloyds of London, which must stand the major portion of the loss, pursuing the answers to two questions: "Who helped Wolf with his huge thefts?" and "How much can be recovered?"

The Chicago Board of Trade announced last night through its president, James C. Murray, that it would investigate brokerage houses which handled Wolf's dealings in grain to determine whether any were culpable or negligent and whether salesmen encouraged him by false promises.

The Chicago Stock Exchange also was expected to conduct a similar inquiry.

Wolf insists that he conducted his regular thefts alone and the bank is convinced he had no accomplices within the institution, which is the largest bank in Chicago and ranks fourth in the nation.

But some contend that others were implicated through knowledge of what the $4,600-a-year head of the bank's coupon department was doing through leading him into ruinous attempts to recoup past losses and perhaps through actually compelling him under threat of exposure to continue the desperate financial adventures which started 12 years ago with an innocent purchase of 10 shares of stock.

The answer to the second question, it is now believed, will be $1,000,000, as bonds of that amount are held by brokers as margin in Wolf's accounts. The recovery of this will be a tedious process, involving a long legal fight.

Store Proprietor Held After Fight

A fight over a small bill resulted in Sebastian Grimaldi, 45, proprietor of a store at 1226 Sandusky street, being held for court on a charge of pointing firearms by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today. Mrs. Grace Grimaldi, 45, his wife, and Mrs. Rose Toloneo, 18, of 1311 Sandusky street, a bride of two months, were discharged.

Following an argument over a bill owed by Mrs. Toloneo, a fight started in which the three were involved. Mrs. Toloneo admitted hurling a pop bottle at Grimaldi which struck his wife. Mrs. Toloneo said Grimaldi obtained a pistol and threatened her. He denied her accusation. Police found a pistol with two cartridge clips hidden in a rubbish can.

$14,500 in Envelope Lost 'Running in Rain'

Lawrence Cox, 60, came to town today from his home in Hermine and with City Detectives William Sullivan and Charles Weisenhofer he retraced his steps in search of a blue envelope containing $14,500. About two inches thick, the envelope contained 290 bills of $50 denomination.

He had lost the packet yesterday somewhere between the Pittsburgh banking institution and his home.

He told detectives:

He had given notice at the bank last July that he wanted the withdrawal to make a trip to Europe.

He got it, planning to keep $2,000 of it and divide the remainder between his wife and five married children. He left the bank and passed along Smithfield and other streets to the Postoffice Building, where he arranged for literature papers preparatory to leaving. He then went to the Pennsylvania station and exchanged for train there to Herminie. A ragged pickpocket, might have examined him, he told Detectives Sullivan and Weisenhofer.

"No, I talked to one old man with whiskers in the station. That's all. I watched for pickpockets and sat alone."

English Baronet Added To Dole Receivers

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(INS)—An English baronet, holder of an ancient and distinguished title, was added today to the ever-growing list of Britishers receiving the unemployment dole.

He is Sir Charles Buckworth Herne Soame, 36. British unemployment records show he enjoys the distinction of being the only baronet in the country receiving the dole.

Sir Charles was located by International News Service today in his cottage in Shropshire. Eleventh holder of the title, he succeeded to the baronetcy on the death of his father a week ago.

He immediately walked a mile through a driving rainstorm to register as an unemployed worker. He has received his first week's dole—12 shillings, equal to about $2.88.

Sir Charles' only other means of support is a $2 weekly pension from the government for wounds sustained in the World War, in which he served as a private. He said:

"I am looking for any kind of work—anything at all."

International News Service.

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 3.—Wireless contact with the polar submarine Nautilus has been re established by radio operators at land and sea stations in the Arctic, according to dispatches received here today.

The Pioneer Whaling Company of Oslo received a cable via Spitsbergen from its cookery on Bear Island saying the radio operator there had intercepted a wireless message from the Nautilus Tuesday night.

The Nautilus operator said the submersible on which Sir Hubert Wilkins and his exploring party are attempting to reach the North Pole by diving under the ice cap was experiencing severe storms north of Bear Island.

VETERANS UNWORRIED

While the fate of the Polar submarine Nautilus is in doubt during the silence of its radio grizzled veterans of Arctic explorations and hard-bitten ice captains said that is was too early to fear for her safety. Prof. Helland Hansen, Oslo scientist, said:

"If Sir Hubert Wilkins and Prof. Sverdrup have decided to go under the solid ice, it is possible that we shall not hear from them for a fortnight."

Explorers pointed out that it was nothing for Arctic expeditions to be missing for months and radio experts said that probably meterological phenomena such as the Aurora Borealis or the "barrier" which turned back the Graf Zeppelin's signals might have prevented Sir Hubert from communicating with the outside world.

When he last communicated with the Oslo wireless station Sir Hubert said that he was within 300 miles of the North Pole and that he planned to dive under the ice for his great adventure.

STEFANSSON'S VIEWS

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—Star dust on the bottom of the sea, among other scientific things, has drawn Sir Hubert Wilkins, submarine polar explorer, farther north than any other man has ever sailed or steamed—and into great danger, in the opinion of Vilhajamar Stefansson, who once led Sir Hubert on another polar trip.

"Sir Hubert undoubtedly cannot much longer delay his return from the ice because the summer season virtually is finished.

"When he started his trip the chances were four to one in his favor, but with winter approaching the odds are reversed. The great floating ice packs will now begin to freeze together, making travel on the sea impossible and the submarine's undersea range is only 100 miles.

BELIEVED SAFE

"I think Sir Hubert is overconfident of the powers of his very efficient radio. The Graf Zeppelin had as powerful a set, but also could not communicate with the outside for sometime. In all likelihood he is safe at present."

Stefansson emphasized the importance of Sir Hubert's trip, explaining that in no other way can certain important scientific phenomena be obtained.

"Sir Hubert also seeks to weigh the earth from the north, which is the shortest radius to the center of the globe. The earth already has been weighed from the Equator, where the radius is longest, and a comparison of the two weights will disclose important phenomena about, among other things, the mineral constitution of the earth."

WIFE NOT WORRIED

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(Universal.)—While no wireless messages had been received here from the Nautilus since Saturday morning, Lady Wilkins, wife of Sir Hubert Wilkins, commander of the expedition, said last night:

"I am not unduly worried. I judge from my husband's last message they are now under the Polar ice, and I expect wireless communication would not be so easy in the circumstances."

WED AGAIN—FOR A DAY

WINIFRED SACKVILLE STONER II . . . THIRD MARRIAGE BRIEF

Miss Stoner, writer and one-time child-prodigy, who formerly lived in Pittsburgh, was wed in Yuma, Ariz., in her third matrimonial venture, it was revealed today. Her mother immediately announced, however, Miss Stoner had left her husband after a day and was now seeking annulment.

THIRD STONER MARRIAGE REVEALED

Mother of Writer Tells Of Separation One Day After Wedding Ceremony

YUMA, Ariz., Sept. 3.—(AP.)—The third marriage of Winifred Sackville Stoner II, writer, once known as a child wonder, has been disclosed here.

Donald B. Wisner, clerk at the county courthouse, said last night a marriage license had been issued to Miss Stoner and Earl Winston Harrison, August 18, and that they were married a few hours later by Justice of the Peace E. A. Frasier.

In applying for the license Harrison said he was 31 and a salesman of Wells, Tex. He said he was born in Douglas, Tex., and had been married once before.

Miss Stoner gave her age as 29 and her address as New York. She said she was divorced July 8, 1930.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. James Buchanan Stoner, mother of Winifred Sackville Stoner II, said today her daughter left her third husband a day after their marriage in Yuma, Ariz., on August 18, and was filing annulment proceedings.

Winifred, who wrote a book when 6 years old, was first married in 1921 to a man who called himself Counte Philippe Clinton de Bruche. He was exposed and Miss Stoner filed annulment proceedings, but dropped them on learning he had died in Mexico in an automobile crash.

She then married Louis Hyman, middle-aged sportsman, and soon divorced him.

Three years ago she accused Richard Loeb, stock broker, of giving her bracelet to another woman. The case was settled out of court.

Winifred Sackville Stoner became a resident of Pittsburgh at the age of 8, her father, Col. James Buchanan Stoner, being at that time in charge of the Marine Hospital. Here her ability as a child author first drew attention.

In 1918 she was an instructor in Esperanto, the universal language, at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

3 ON RUNAWAY BLIMP SAVED AT AIRPORT

Craft Being Driven Out to Sea in Storm Halted as Ground Crew Grabs Ropes

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—Buffeted by winds of a rising electrical storm, a runaway blimp with three men aboard was brought down last night by a ground crew at North Beach Airport as it drifted helplessly with a crippled motor toward the ocean. Its fuel tanks were almost empty.

Prevented by the storm and motor failure from mooring at Teterboro Airport, N. J., the crew tried again to land in safety as they were swept over the Newark Airport.

In the dusk, Pilot Heinie Miller, on detached duty from Langley Field, Va., managed to steer his craft to the North Beach Airport, the wind and his remaining engine helping.

Here Capt. Harry Rogers, airport manager, heard the cries for aid. Assembling a ground crew of 25 men and available sandbags, he rushed them to the field where the men managed to catch lines lowered from the blimp.

In addition to Lieut. Miller, those on board were W. R. Wadsworth and A. T. Bailey, a passenger, of White Plains, N. Y.

Soon after the men had caught the blimp, the wind and storm struck with full force. The gas bag, light and of large surface, caught the gusts and swayed the ground crew all around the field. Aided by 30 more men, they finally got the craft under control.

Maj. Wadsworth said that in all his experience he never before had been in so tight a place. He said:

"If your men had not been so efficient in catching us we would certainly have drifted out over the ocean. With only one engine working and less than 15 minutes' fuel supply left, we would have been in for a bad night, helpless before the wind."

CHINA, MEXICO TO GET U. S. AID

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(INS.)—The American government has offered its good offices in adjusting the controversy between the Mexican and Chinese governments over the deportation of Chinese residents from the Mexican state of Sonora.

The American offer is informal and is contingent upon the Chinese government supplying the State Department with all the facts of the situation and prescribes the basis for its protest. Thus far, the Chinese have not accepted the American proposal which was made informally by the American minister to the Chinese foreign office.

Officials admitted that probably this government could do little except to have Ambassador Clark at Mexico City take up the international law aspect of the case with the Mexican federal government.

PUBLIC SAFETY DIRECTOR CLARK HEARING ALL ABOUT IT

DANCER SEIZED DISABLED VETS IN DUFFY DEATH ASK MORE AID

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—Paul Corbo, 27, and Miss Vivian Lee, 19, a night club dancer, were arrested today in connection with the slaying of Mickey Duffy, Philadelphia racketeer, in Atlantic City.

Two New York detectives went to a hotel early today and ascended to Carbo's room. With pistols drawn, one of the detectives shouted through the door:

"Telegram, sir."

Carbo, unarmed, and dressed in a lounging robe, opened the door. Police quoted him as saying:

"Oh, I suppose this is for the Duffy murder I read about in the papers."

From a huge assortment of clothes he picked out a gray suit, sport shoes, silk shirt and accompanied the detectives, with Miss Lee.

Carbo once served 14 months for the slaying of a Bronx butcher, but was paroled on his plea of self-defense.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—The annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was on record today as favoring immediate payment of the federal adjusted compensation certificates and the refunding of interest on payments already advanced.

Disregarding the advice of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administration of veteran affairs, and Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the treasury, that former soldiers refrain from demanding additional federal aid during the present depression, the veterans voted yesterday that a resolution embodying the two measures be drafted.

A military ball last night was attended by more than 3,000 persons. Paul C. Wolman, of Baltimore, commander-in-chief, and other national officers were in the receiving line.

Youth Kills Himself In Presence of Girl

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 3.—(AP.)—A youthful romance ended in tragedy when Earl Bent, 19, swallowed poison in the presence of his avowed sweetheart and the youth he considered his rival. He died a few minutes later in a hospital.

Police said the romance began last winter when Bent met Miss Pearl May Russell 18. Last night he called on Miss Russell and found Samuel Wagner, 21, of Pottstown, Pa., ahead of him. He called "Goodbye, dear" to the girl and drank the poison.

Board Bill Halts Man's Deportation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—The law stood aside today while Mrs. Alfred Beyer, Clifton (N. J.) landlady, collected a $200 board bill.

Immigration authorities ordered Frederick Mantelli, of the same city, deported July 13 for entering the United States illegally. His landlady protested and a temporary stay was granted on the promise the back board bill would be settled. Today was Mantelli's last chance to pay up and leave the country.

Silver Conference Called for Sept. 17

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—An unofficial international conference of financial experts will meet in Paris September 17 under the auspices of the International Chamber of Commerce to study the problem of the depressed price of silver.

The conference was recommended at the meeting of the International Chamber here last May.

Experts have been invited from Great Britain, France, India, China, Japan and the United States.

Lindys Spend Time Sending Postcards

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—(INS.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh have spent most of their time at Karuizawa addressing postcards, like other tourists, to friends back home. The weather at the mountain resort has been rainy and the famous couple have spent much time indoors beside Ambassador Forbes' log fire.

They were expected to return to Tokio Saturday. The Colonel's schedule called for a visit to Osaka and other cities before flying to Nanking, China, as the guest of the Nationalist government.

Buddy Rogers Quits Movies to Croon

AIR RACE OVER PACIFIC LOOMS

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—(INS.)—An airplane race across the Pacific loomed as a distinct possibility today when the Japanese government granted a take-off permit to Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, American airmen planning a non-stop flight to Tacoma, Wash.

Moyle and Allen planned to hop to Saboshito Beach tomorrow and will take off on the ocean hop as soon as the weather permits.

Meanwhile, Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, American fliers, were busy overhauling their plane in preparation for a non-stop hop to Seattle.

FASTER PLANES IN AIR RACES

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, CLEVELAND, Sept. 3.—(INS.)—Building up for a climactic outburst of spectacular bullet-like speed in the major dash events, swifter and more powerful racing planes were to appear today at the National Air Races in a double-header program of competitive closed course races.

Rainy, misty weather, which forced complete postponement of all activity yesterday, continued to threaten today. Clear skies, however, were predicted for later in the day.

The program was to open with an efficiency contest for transport pilots and the daily men's and women's dead stick landing events. Starting with a 30-mile dash for planes of 400-cubic inch piston displacement, a card of five speed dashes was to be run off this afternoon, the most important being the 50-mile free-for-all event open to planes of 1,200 cubic inches or less.

BOYS AND GIRLS AT WHITE BRIDGE STOP, HAYSVILLE . . . . FARES REQUIRED, THEY TOLD MOTORMAN TO KEEP GOING

Police Volunteer Blood; Fail to Save Life

Physicians at Presbyterian Hospital early today lost a valiant fight to save the life of James H. White, 56, of New Mexico, uncle of Dr. H. P. Cook, of 412 West North avenue, a member of the hospital staff. The patient died a few minutes after a blood transfusion.

During the night a number of police and firemen, responding to a call for blood, were examined, but were not accepted. Shortly after midnight George Stepp, a registered donor, was selected for the operation, but the transfusion was futile.

White, on a visit here, was operated on Monday. He became critically ill yesterday and Dr. Hook, who had been at his bedside almost constantly, appealed to police for volunteers for a transfusion. His appeal was broadcast over the police radio and teletype system.

Louise Thaden Wavering On Plan to Quit Races

By LOUISE THADEN

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3.—Wavering.

That one little word explains my feeling about future participation in air racing.

Unless I can't stand the strain I sincerely intend to stand by my decision of no more races.

I've managed to struggle through here without entering any closed course events, which may be a good indication.

But remember, no human is infallible.

PARK AND BRYAN DENOUNCED IN M'KEES ROCKS

500 Independents Hear McGovern, Smith Urge Ouster of Organization

Clear, concise and frequent reports on how the county's money is spent will be made to all residents of the county in the event of his re-election, Commissioner Charles C. McGovern promised 500 citizens at a meeting last night in the auditorium of St. John's Polish National church, Fifth avenue and Sherwin street, McKees Rocks. Mr. McGovern said:

"If I am re-elected and with a sympathetic colleague on the board I promise now that you people, many from the Balkan states, will have a key representative on the board who will come back and tell just how your money was being spent.

"I have never let an opportunity pass to aid the small home owners by lower taxes. I believe my re-election will do much to abate a tax increase. There cannot be a reduction in taxes this year for there are too many obligations which the county must meet.

COSTLY MISTAKES

"Millions and millions of dollars was spent for county roads, the bonds to be paid in 30 years. The life of roads is only 12 years. I wanted improvements thinned out, bonds to be paid in 12 years.

"More than 50 per cent of estimated costs of county contracts are spent for political payroll, engineering bungles and other things."

State Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith, candidate for District Attorney, told the gathering that District Attorney Andrew T. Park has miserably failed in office. He cited numerous murders and bombings since the first of the year.

CITES MURDERS

Attorney Smith said:

"The home of Thomas J. Conley, next door to this church, was bombed some time ago. For weeks the county detectives did not do a thing about it. Then they questioned Mr. Conley. Then they laid around the Commonwealth Hotel, owned by Miles Bryan, political boss of McKees Rocks. Later they arrested 13 men. They were all released. That is how your $10,000-a-year District Attorney conducts his office."

URGES BRYAN DEFEAT

In concluding Smith said:

"Strike down Miles Bryan and the machine that has been stealing your money. Take this government from the political hoodlums. This is your government. I want your vote, and vote for all the other candidates on the independent ticket."

The Rev. Basil Stichter, pastor of the church, opened the meeting with remarks that the gathering was a tribute to Conley, candidate for Justice of the Peace.

Besides Conley, who presided, other speakers were Alfred Williams, general chairman of the McKees Rocks Citizens' Committee; Paul G. Mateas, candidate for Constable in the First Ward, and a brother of Michael Mateas, Assistant Chief of Police of the borough; Stephen Benchs, candidate for Constable of the Second Ward; Andrew Valtek, Joseph Rusiewicz and E. C. Flannigan.

Independents Busy In Thirteenth Ward

The Independent Republican organization of the Thirteenth Ward, formerly Knoxville Borough, has completed organization and is actively engaged in a vigorous campaign. At the last meeting it was decided to enter every election district with leaders and workers.

Plans are under way for a mass meeting September 14 in Knoxville Junior High School. Officers of the organization are H. B. McNutt, chairman; H. C. McCormack, vice chairman; Miss Carrie Church, treasurer; Louis Henning, leader of the Third District, in charge of the information bureau.

Beamish Spurs Phila. Vote Machine Buying

HARRISBURG, Sept. 3. (AP.)—The Philadelphia County Commissioners have been notified by Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish that if they have not awarded contracts for sufficient voting machines to supply all of the Philadelphia districts by October 5, he will advertise for bids for sufficient machines to be supplied as soon as possible.

The information was contained in a letter sent to the Commissioners giving them 30 days in which to award contracts for machines to supply all of the 1,500 or more districts.

VOTE MACHINES READY

WORKMEN MAKING FINAL CHECK FOR USE IN PRIMARIES

Minor adjustments are being made, slugs with names of candidates are being inserted and last-minute tests are being conducted of the county's supply of vote machines in the County Office Building after their delivery here for use in September 15 primary.

16 Unsolved Murders Listed by Smith in Slam at Park

Ralph H. Smith, candidate for District Attorney, in speeches last night in Bridgeville and McKees Rocks, charged that 16 unsolved racketeering murders have been committed in Allegheny County since his opponent, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, took office.

Smith said:

"In his announcement April 5, 1930, the day he was sworn in as District Attorney, Mr. Park promised a vigorous prosecution of law violators, an investigation of every complaint regarding operation of gamblers, slot machines, racketeers and other lawbreakers.

"There is a wide variance between the promise and the performance. The administration of the District Attorney's office has been inefficient in that no single effective step has been taken by that office to stop the racketeering that is thriving in a period of depression.

"The District Attorney cannot evade his responsibility. He must accept leadership in the people's fight against the criminal and the racketeer."

LISTS RACKET DEATHS

Smith reviewed a number of murders committed since Park took office as District Attorney. The speaker declared they still are unsolved and listed them as follows:

May 15, 1930, Antonio Monteleone, 27, a Detroit and New York gunman, who had been imported as a torpedo, was shot to death in the Blue Moon roadhouse, Frankstown road, to gunmen who escaped in an automobile. No clues, no arrests, no prosecutions.

June 4, 1930, Antonio Rugari, 48, Island avenue, McKees Rocks, found shot to death near Norwood dancing pavilion in Stowe Township. Detectives ascertained it to be a bootleg racket joint. No clues, no arrests, no prosecutions.

September 12, 1930, Paul Turco, 35, Ambridge gambler and racketeer, operating both in Allegheny and Beaver counties, found murdered, shot to death in Strickler Township, near Camp Meeting road. No clues, no arrests, no prosecutions.

DE ROSA SLAYING

September 28, 1930, Mike De Rosa, of Glenshaw, Pa., and Antonio Lorizio, of 609 Lenora street. Both were found in the rear of 1215 Ohio street with their skulls caved in with blackjacks. One died the day he was found, the other lived long enough to get to a hospital. No clues, no arrests, no prosecutions.

October 4, 1930, Mrs. Mary Lazzo, in a letter sent to the Commissioners, giving them 30 days in which her unborn child, Joseph, her husband, Carmen, his brother, and Louis Tamburo, killed by two gunmen who came into the Lebanon store at 410 Sixth avenue, Braddock. It was in connection with this case that one of the Volpe brothers was questioned by detectives regarding papers indicating transactions involving thousands of dollars. No clues, no arrests, no prosecutions.

English Lauds Coyne's Legislative Record

A legislator's action on measures that affect all classes of citizens always is a dependable criterion as to his fitness for another public office, according to Councilman W. Y. English, reviewing the career of State Senator James J. Coyne, candidate for County Commissioner, in a speech last night in Sixteenth Ward headquarters. English declared:

"As a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly in 1923 Coyne voted to restore the full crew bill. He was active in having an old age pension bill written on the statute books. He voted to increase workmen's compensation and to reduce the working hours of women.

"As a member of the Senate from 1925 to 1931 he voted for the following measures: Pensions for the blind, voting machines, double compensation for children injured while illegally employed, a proposed amendment to the Constitution to allow counties, cities, boroughs and townships to appropriate money for mothers' assistance and aged persons.

"He voted for a proposed constitutional amendment to permit the payment of pensions to widowed mothers and aged persons.

"Senator Coyne as a member of the House of Representatives and as a member of the Senate was very fair to labor and was always approachable at all times by labor's representatives," declared G. B. Rowand, chairman and legal representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in an open letter given at Harrisburg, July 30, 1931."

Haggerty Pleads For 'Humanology'

Attorney John F. Haggerty, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, speaking at a headquarters meeting in Bellevue last night, urged that more "humanology" be injected into the judicial offices. He declared:

"Because he wears the judicial robes is no reason for a Judge to lose his ability to smile and shake hands.

"Personally, it is my intention, if elected, to continue in the same even tenor that I have always followed, to make myself accessible to the people, my employers, and to broaden, rather than contract my field of acquaintances."

DREW'S ACTION SCORED BY UHL

Attorney Lewis E. Uhl, of Somerset County, candidate on the Democratic state organization ticket for Judge of Supreme Court, is in Pittsburgh yesterday and conferred with party leaders in Allegheny County.

He resented the action of Supreme Court Judge James B. Drew of Pittsburgh, who has filed for the Democratic as well as the Republican nomination for a full term. Judge Drew, a Republican, was appointed from the Superior Court bench to the Supreme Court by Gov. Pinchot, Uhl said.

"Our constitution contemplates minority representation. This representation has been denied the Democratic party, although it has a registered membership of more than 1,000,000 voters in the state.

"The effort on the part of Mr. Drew is not only to deny the Democratic party any representation, but is also an effort to deprive it of a candidate of their own party."

Six political and social clubs had added their indorsements to the candidacy of Attorney J. J. McGrath for Judge of County Court, it was reported today at his headquarters. They are:

Fifth Ward Universal Club, Fifth Ward Progressive Club, Third Ward Voters' League, Sixth Ward Independent Club, Fifteenth Ward Progressive Club and the Homestead Universal Club.

Kane Urges Court Delays Be Corrected

Correction of court delays was the subject of an address by Thomas L. Kane, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, at a meeting last night in McKeesport.

Delays are a great disadvantage to the defendants in that witnesses die or move away from the jurisdiction of the court before the case is called for trial, Kane said.

BACK SOCIALIST TICKET

Representatives of 51 labor unions, fraternal organizations and branches of the Socialist party, in an Allegheny County labor political conference this week, decided to endorse the entire Socialist ticket.

A resolution, passed unanimously, declared the Republican and Democratic parties "represent the self-privileged interests who have constantly used the powers of their offices to betray the workers both during times of industrial dispute as well as during times of so-called industrial peace."

A number of street meetings are scheduled in various sections of the city this week by the Socialist party of Allegheny County in the interest of city and county candidates for the primary.

NICKLAS LAUDS ARMSTRONG

John B. Nicklas, Jr., former county commander of the American Legion and president of the Alumni Association of University of Pittsburgh, in a broadcast last night over KDKA, said:

"Joseph G. Armstrong, senior commissioner of Allegheny County, in behalf of whose candidacy for a renomination at the coming primary, I now am privileged to speak, early identified himself with public office in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, has devoted practically his entire life as a public servant and has identified his personality in service with his friends' and neighbors' cause.

"The vivid speaking memorials to his record of service have been written about so fully that it is not necessary to repeat them. But throughout this astounding career of activity, Commissioner Armstrong has retained his sympathetic interest in the problem of his many friends and constituents."

R. M. Keogh, department commander, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, has forwarded to Armstrong a letter which stated in part:

"In you we found a loyal friend, patient in listening to the problems of the disabled veterans and sympathetic in aiding their solution. The steady increase in the employment of those handicapped by reason of wounds or disabilities incurred in line of duty, has been a source of satisfaction to this department."

County Commissioner Edward V. Babcock will broadcast at 8:15 tonight over KDKA as one of the featured speakers on the "Old Gray Mare" program.

SHAFFER URGES METRO PLAN

Mr. [illegible], candidate for Council, said last night that statistics of the U. S. census showing nearly 2,000,000 in the Pittsburgh trading area, emphasize the need of welding the 122 municipalities of Allegheny County into a Metropolitan Pittsburgh. He declared:

"Betterment of the economic condition of the workers of this great city is the primary goal before me as I make entrance into the political arena. Because I believe adoption of the Metropolitan Plan would be a long stride in that direction, I pledge full co-operation to W. L. Mellon and other civic leaders in their fostering of this new system of municipal administration."

RAPS BALLYHOO IN CAMPAIGN OF JUDGES

Waldschmidt Denounces Bench Scramble Tactics; Other Aspirants Speak

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, issued a statement today deploring the methods in the judiciary campaign which approach "ballyhoo." He stated:

"If we are not careful, the campaign for places on the Common Pleas Court bench will evolve into a ballyhoo such as is customary with elections to other offices. I do not think it would be good for such methods to become customary in connection with elections to the judiciary.

"In a judgeship campaign there is little opportunity for candidates to talk. They have to talk about themselves in nearly all instances, which is an unpleasant and awkward task. There is nothing to debate. People select judges on the qualifications that candidates exhibited during their practice of the law.

COURT SHIFTS SCORED

Representative M. A. Musmanno, candidate for Judge of County Court, speaking at a meeting of voters of the Eighteenth Ward last night, expressed the opinion that judges of that court should not be rotated when they had demonstrated a fitness for the juvenile delinquency branch. He stated:

"When judges are continually changed over short periods, I am certain that the children, who are wards of that court, do not get that attention which is their due. There can be no understanding continuity of any child's case when, during its pendency, the adjudging tribunal keeps undergoing the process of differing personnel."

DUFF RAPS DELAY

Speaking at a mass meeting in Elroy Public School, Brentwood Borough, last night, Attorney J. Boyd Duff, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, stressed his opinion that a correct decision was only half of the case. He said:

"To give a just decision three years after the suit was filed is to rob it of substantial justice. The voters should know that the methods used caused a doubled trial staff of judges to increase the delay about one-third. The court is six months behind after one year's earnest work.

"A judge who cannot or will not free himself from such obsolete, dilatory, futile procedure, marks himself as an administrative incompetent."

Abolition of visiting judges was urged by Attorney Frank P. Canuti, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, at a meeting yesterday in his headquarters in the St. Nicholas Building. He has long campaigned for a reduction of court delays and the abolishment of summer vacations.

LINDSAY LAUDED

In a statement today indorsing Alexander P. Lindsay for Judge of Common Pleas Court, Attorney Alexander Tener said:

"It is not unreasonable to expect that a candidate for judicial honors should be honest, diligent and possessed of some legal experience and ability.

"Alexander P. Lindsay is honest and an able lawyer. Mr. Lindsay is eminently qualified to be a Judge and deserves, and should receive, the support of the voters at the coming primaries."

Lindsay is scheduled to speak tonight at meetings in Aspinwall High School and West Homestead Municipal Hall.

RAPS JUDGES' SLATE

William H. Coleman, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, spoke at the Independent Republican headquarters, East End, last night and declared there is but one issue in the judicial contest and that is the right of the people to elect judges on their individual merit. He stated:

"The slate of sitting judges will be smashed by the people in the coming primaries. The people will determine this issue on the merits of individual fitness, record, experience and ability of the candidates."

Sounding a warning that the stake in the present judicial contest is a free and non-political bench, Joseph H. Reich, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, addressed citizens meetings last night in Coal Valley, Elizabeth Township. He said:

"The issue is not individual or personal, the principle of a free and uncontrolled judiciary is at stake. I am convinced that the people will not tolerate a judicial slate, whether political or legal."

SEVEN JUDGES BACKED

Another leading member of the Allegheny County bar today came to the support of the seven Judges of Common Pleas Court that are seeking to succeed themselves. He is Charles F. Arensberg, of Patterson, Crawford, Arensberg & Dunn, who declared that he saw no reason for supplanting any one of the incumbents. He stated:

"I am in favor of the nomination of the seven present Judges, Stadtfeld, Reid, Gardner, Snee, Dithrich, Egan and McNaugher, because I believe they are entitled to this nomination by reason of their character, ability and experience."

Taxpayers' League Indorses Negley

STORE SLAYING SUSPECT HELD

A coroner's jury today recommended that David L. Bedford, Hill district, be held on a murder charge in the slaying of Harry Seigal, 28, of 20 Oakland square, assistant manager of the Walgreen drug store, Wood street and Sixth avenue, during a holdup August 4.

Daniel Korn, of 1911 Bedford avenue, manager of another Walgreen store, testified that he recognized Bedford when a mask slipped from his face as he bent over Seigal to get his wallet after shooting him. He identified the Negro.

Ethel Davis, Negro, of 2016 Center avenue, common law wife of Bedford, testified she could identify the revolver used in the killing as Bedford's as she had shot at him with the same weapon in a quarrel following the killing of Seigal. She later took the gun to her mother's home, she said.

MOTHER—Watch this Girl . . . This is the Time You Should be on Your Guard

"My back bothers me"—the gentle complaint . . . "I guess I'll lie down"—Have you ever felt this way yourself?

Despondent, Listless Girls

SHE LOOKS despondent, worn out and depressed. Young girls budding into womanhood, dislike quiet and wistful. Lassitude overtakes them. They should be watched.

"I have a headache"—then more often complain, "My back bothers me, and I guess I'll lie down."

These are the symptoms mother—and you should be on your guard.

During this "trying time," every young girl needs the helpful benefit of a strengthening medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Those who are most attractive among women become faded prematurely. The pretty girl of 18 becomes a languid lady at 25.

"Suffering isn't natural." Remember that it may be brave and heroic to suffer, but it's unnecessary.

When your daughter becomes tired and listless, won't you give her Vegetable Compound Tablets . . . just as other mothers do? For over fifty years this medicine has been considered a SAFE and ACCEPTED household remedy.

The very fact that it's been in use a long, long time, gives women extra confidence. They know it must be good . . . or so many women wouldn't take it.

And how true that is! For our records show that 98 out of every 100 women who write us actually report benefit from the strengthening treatment of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of either the tablets or the liquid. Don't postpone for another day the blessed relief this medicine brings.

MOTIVE SOUGHT IN BLUEBEARD SLAYINGS

murders have been traced to operations of the American Friendship Society, through which Powers of late years had made his love-contacts with women all over the United States and Canada.

Reports of a mail "affair" between Powers and a Clarksburg woman whose name has not been divulged, were being investigated. Powers was said to have grown cold to the home-town romance and to have attempted to turn over his "prospect" to a friend who "might be interested." The friend, police say, was never heard from by the woman.

VICTIM'S RELATIVES DUE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fleming, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, of Worcester, Mass., today were en route to Clarksburg to claim her body. She was one of the victims of Powers' alleged murders.

Prosecuting Attorney Will E. Moore announced no important new angles have been unearthed though the city detectives are investigating several minor details. Morris is assembling the evidence already at hand in preparation of the case in November.

Barratt O'Hara, Chicago criminal attorney, conferred yesterday with Powers' counsel, Attorney Law, on the possibility of entering the case in an advisory capacity. Another conference was set for today, together with an interview with the prisoner. No announcement of O'Hara's connection with the case was forthcoming until after today's conference, both attorneys said.

WIFE PREVIOUSLY WED

Powers was the second husband of Mrs. Luella Strother Powers and the second man in her life to be accused of taking human life, court records here revealed today.

Mrs. Powers' first husband, it was learned, was Ernest Knisley, a farmer of Peel Tree Run. Knisley was tried for the slaying of John Sheeler, 45, another farmer, and acquitted on the grounds of self-defense. Mrs. Powers married Knisley shortly after his acquittal and divorced him in 1914, resuming her maiden name.

Mrs. Powers, as Luella Strother, married Knisley at the age of 17 in 1903. Knisley was 32 at the time of the marriage.

MARRIAGE CLUB PROFIT HUGE

DETROIT, Sept. 3.—(INS)—Two sensational developments marked the probe today into the operations of the American Friendship Society through which Harry F. Powers met his victims. They were:

1—The "non-profit" society, according to authorities, collected between $150,000 and $200,000 in "dues" during the past four years.

2—Police declared that a gang of swindlers used the society's catalog of "wealthy widows" to ensnare victims.

Joseph A. Gillis, assistant attorney general, who declared that he will institute court proceedings to force the "marriage mart" out of business, said that although the society advertised itself as a "non-profit" organization, the huge sum has been collected mostly from lonely women searching for "mail order" husbands.

Albert Plater, self-styled doctor and virtual head of the society, although his wife Olga is listed as president, resides in a $50,000 home in an exclusive suburb.

BURIAL PLOT IN WHICH SLAIN EICHER FAMILY WILL REST

Henry Schoeneck, caretaker, inspecting withered flowers on grave of three Eicher children who died years ago. Now new stones will carry names of Mrs. Asta Eicher and her three other children, "love farm" murder victims whose bodies were cremated here and sent to Park Ridge, Ill., for burial alongside loved ones there.

Nation-Wide Check Begun For Suspected Victims Of 'Bluebeard' Powers

A nation wide check of missing women was being made today by police of scores of cities into the alleged matrimonial agency activities of Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, confessed slayer of two women and three children, at Clarksburg, W. Va.

CLEVELAND—Detectives canvass 150 homes from which young women have disappeared since 1927.

MANSFIELD, O.—Police plan search of two garages rented by "Joe Gildeau" and "Harold Borgo," names used by Powers when he lived here in 1924 to 1926. He had police record here.

SANTA MONICA, Cal.—Mrs. Alice White Larkin, described as a "little frail old lady beyond the age of romance," whose name was found on Harry Powers' "sucker" list, probably interested him because of her philanthropies rather than romantic reasons, her secretary, Mrs. R. D. Smith, said.

MILLER, S. D.—Investigators today learned Harry F. Powers, using name of Gildeau, had post-office box here. He left here for Lake Benton, Minn., and then to Cambridge, O.

CHICAGO—Accused by Miss Lena Fellows of fleecing her out of more than $5,000, Powers spent several months in Cook County Jail. He was acquitted.

NEW YORK—Detectives have asked Clarksburg police to be on lookout for clues that might clear up mysterious "forth" murder of Margaret Brown, governess. Miss Brown was a member of American Friendship Society, police say. Another member of the society, according to police, who met death was Mrs. Mildred Mowry, formerly of Greensburg, Pa., for which Dr. Richard Campbell, of Westfield, died in electric chair.

Powers' Activities Here Being Probed

Correspondence of Harry F. Powers, love racketeer under arrest in Clarksburg, W. Va., for the murder of two women and three children, with three women in the Pittsburgh district, prompted County Detective Chief George W. Murren to investigate his operations here. Murren detailed his detectives to checkup on the women. Powers, who communicated with the women under the name of "John Gildaw," had obtained their names from a Detroit matrimonial agency. Letters from the women were found in a trunk in Powers' garage. One, dated in 1924, was mailed from the North Side, another from Crafton and the third from Latrobe.

POWERS' CODE SPURS HUNT FOR VICTIMS

Discovery of Key to Symbols Reveals Death Sign Among Favorites

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 3.—Delving further into the mysterious love code of Harry F. Powers, man of a thousand loves and accused of at least five murders, authorities here today disclosed more of the mail order Bluebeard's system in luring his victims.

The code, denoting various phases of his adventures in matrimonial agency romances, is being scanned for possible leads to other murder victims following discovery of the death symbol "P-15."

LETTERS BEAR SYMBOL

Letters from two slain women, Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, and Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, Worcester, Mass., both bore the mysterious symbol. Letters from another woman, Miss Virginia Bell, of Hagerstown, Md., believed marked for death, also bore the symbol. Miss Bell had a date to "go riding" with the love racketeer last Thursday, the day he was taken into custody.

An article on suicide, murder and insanity as traced to liquor was listed as "A-1." Paraphrasing a paragraph from this article, the mail order Romeo wrote to Miss Edith D. Simpson, of Detroit, in an unmailed letter seized at the time of his arrest:

"Daynor, dear, I'll say right here that if I were a man with the brains and ability to attain the fame and fortune a man can, I'd never make a drunken fool of myself, standing for a lot of wise cracks from a fat flabby-faced night club hostess, who stands by like a Simon Legree in skirts, lip-lashing her skinny cabaret girls to strut their stuff like so many bloodhounds amid the cracked ice."

REGULAR SYSTEM

From the key to the code as revealed by the authorities, Powers carried his various mail-order flames through a regularly outlined course, varying only to the moods and fancies of his different "sweethearts."

LETTERS BARE MRS. POWERS' MAIL LOVE

Missives Belie Claim of Bluebeard's Wife Hers Was Not Agency Love

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 3.—Further details of the mail order courtship of Mrs. Luella Strothers Powers and her pudgy husband, were revealed today in two more letters seized by police.

Five short years ago Mrs. Powers addressed her Romeo as "my dear honey man and the fairest flower in the garden of my heart."

Today her breath-taking denunciation of the man she wanted by her side 24 hours a day still rang in the ears of Chief of Police Clarence Duckworth.

From love to hate over night!
She wrote once:

"I love to read your letters. They are so interesting and endearing—just like the sweetie that writes them. They revive my little depressed heart and mental anguish wonderfully, just like the beautiful sunshine and rain revives a wilted flower."

A picture she clipped from a magazine which "looks a wee bit like me," sent to Powers and close questioning as to his description, his religious faith, his likes and dislikes and directions as to how to reach her home on a contemplated visit, gave the lie to her denial that hers was not a mail romance.

Pleading with Powers to visit her, she wrote:

"I don't think you will ever regret it, honey—I'm not so good looking, but I'm cute and real loving, just like a little cling peach would be.

"I have lots of good, sweet kisses, and I'm saving all of them for sweet little you.

"I want my life to be a real bed of roses and not a single thorn among them. Remember, dear, I am not looking for a June or hedge rose—it's a new kind that will come out in two lovely buds in August and burst in full bloom in September. I'm going to name them Harry and Luella and hope they continue to bloom all through life. And perhaps we can get a minister to finish the name. You will laugh, but I really mean more than I say—ha, ha."

RENEWED FIGHT ON SHOALS SEEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The 11-year-old battle over government operation of the $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals project will be resumed in the new congress, it appeared today, unless President Hoover's commission leases it to private interests before the December session.

The opponents in House and Senate will point to the commission's failure to lease the project, including it among the items to be left to the Government's discretion.

Congress, however, and not the commission, holds the power to lease Muscle Shoals. Should the commission receive and approve an offer it considers favorable, its authority is limited to submitting recommendations to Congress through the President.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The body of Leonard Ingstrom, 27, kidnaped August 19 by three men in an automobile, was found yesterday in a ditch near Hinsdale, Ill., with his hands tied behind his back. Apparently he had been shot to death. Ingstrom was the only witness for a pending hearing of Miss Catherine Ricardi, accused of attacking her landlady. She is being sought.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Omar Buck, 60, and Charles Whitehair, 55, both residing near Muncy, were drowned late yesterday in an abandoned quarry of the Keystone Paint and Filler Company, near Muncy. They were driving two horses hitched to a wagon. The horses also were drowned when the wagon fell into 15 feet of water.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

ANOTHER LETTER. Another swell letter. Put your own title on it, or, if you wish, write your own moral. There is no occasion for me to do either. The epistle is signed "Francesca," and, while her initials are engraved at the top of the stationery, I do not think it would be fair to use them. The handwriting is fine and possesses a definite charm. The character of the woman you can judge for yourself. Thus the letter:

"Dear Mark Hellinger: It's the old story, but maybe you'd like to add it to your collection. I've read plenty like it, but I never dreamed it might happen to me.

"We've been married for 10 years. He was the little boy who sat next to me in school, and when we went to high school I'd wait until after football and baseball practice for him. And, Mark, the love I have for him today is just as intense and just as thrilling as it was then. It may even be just a little bit more so, because we've seen a lot of life together.

"Oh, I loved him! Why, his mere look would draw me from a corner of the room to his side. When I was away from him I seemed to possess wings that were beating against iron bars in order to get to him. And when I was near him—well, you know, Mark. I'm sure you understand.

"Of course we had our little differences. I think it's impossible for two human beings to live together without occasional friction. But we were of honor, we managed to avoid those awful misunderstandings that leave such terrible scars. There was an answer to that. We had discovered that we were real friends as well as lovers.

"Our home was really lovely. Nothing too elaborate, you understand, but simply swell because it was the fruit of our combined efforts. And that means so much more than just having things handed to you on a silver platter.

"We were pretty poor when we first started out, but he had the real stuff in him. I won't go into details about the next eight years. They were similar to so many others. Laughter and tears. Disappointments and successes. But through it all was the realization of the shining little core of true love and real understanding. Who couldn't labor together to shape and remold and lift their realities to the ideal when they were sure of that?

"Then a year ago the firm for which he worked went under. I never let him know it, but I was mighty scared. We had taken a cooperative apartment and were supporting his invalid mother. And I knew that jobs were mighty scarce in those days.

"Anyhow, after a little of this and that, with expenses going on just the same, the big chance came. You know the job Mark—because everyone's talking about it. In order to land it we had to put on a pretty brave front. A decent car and all that. I took my personal savings and gave them to him—and, well, the job was his!

"In another six months all those heavy hours that had been spent in waiting and praying were forgotten. He had landed—and with both feet. We had a swell celebration and he gave me my first diamond bracelet. I sat up almost all night admiring it—and it wasn't because of those little glittering stones either. It was the 'thought' behind it that made my heart pound so. We sent mother to the mountains and were planning a little trip ourselves. I was proud of him and grateful to God because we seemed to be on the edge of 'dreams come true.' It was all so very, very wonderful.

"The end, of course, you know. There's nothing in it to make it different from hundreds of others. At exactly 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, August 22nd, life stopped for me like a clock. Yes, just like the old banjo clock that I stopped because he said he didn't like the chimes.

"He told me there was Someone Else. That our love had simmered down to a pleasant, warm affection—and that this fleeting lawless Someone Else was his very life.

"Of course he said we must not go on. I was young, pretty, had a nice figure and a charming personality. Surely in this world there was someone who could make me supremely happy. He went still further. After all, he asserted, the man we pick at 17 is not the type we care for at 27. Naturally he'd give me a generous allowance but now that I knew I'd hardly want him to stay, would I?

"What a joke, Mark, what a rest on me! Until that very moment I could have sworn that he was mine heart, body, yes even soul. They talk about the thoughts that come to a drowning man. As he packed his bag all I could think of was a scene from the moving picture 'Inspiration.' Lewis Stone, leaving his abandoned mistress, is confronted by her body at the steps of the house.

"So I ran from the living room with those inviting open windows. I ran from there and hid myself in the closet until he left. Not because of my family, Mark, nor because of my religion, nor the fear of death. After all, what was physical pain to me now?

"I ran because I was afraid I'd do it. And my love for him was too great to want to burden him with the horrible realization that he had caused me to take that last despairing part in this drama. What good could that do anyone? So I chose instead the harder role of going on alone.

"Maybe you'll see me, Mark, for I'm going to laugh and play hard and run fast. I suppose I'll fall down. In fact I know I will. But there will always be someone to pick me up and brush me off. There always is, isn't there? Even though it's only for a week, a day or an hour.

"For after all, what's the use of anything? Love. Honor. Loyalty. What are those in addition to words? Nothing! And what of God? Could He have sat in timeless eternity, beyond these mists of earth and seen and heard and yet made no sign? I cannot understand.

"I'd put into our marriage all the purity, devotion and unselfish ardor of which I was capable. It was a real sacrament to me. Not something into which I had been trapped by physical attraction alone. Every ounce of love that went into those 10 years was constructive, for it demanded no sacrifice of self-respect or loyalty.

"Words—words—words. I'd built the structure of my life on them, only to see that structure go crashing down while I stood in the midst of the ruins. Isn't it all too funny? Isn't life the greatest jest you know?"

"Look for me, Mark. Look for me in the rotten spots, that you know best. It will be easy to find me. I'll be laughing the loudest of them all."

3 Robbers Escape By Throwing Pepper

LEBANON, Pa., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Three bandits robbed a filling station at Colebrook, near here, yesterday, of $12 and escaped. The proprietor, Mrs. Monroe Royer, was unable to get their license number when they threw pepper in her eyes. The bandits gave up a struggle with Mrs. Royer over the contents of a cash drawer when a dog entered. She followed them and one of them threw the pepper.

Venezuela Returns Child to American

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A two-year fight over the custody of James E. Welch's baby girl ended with announcement that Venezuela had ordered the child turned over to him. Welch said he would go to Venezuela to get the girl, Irma, 3, if Venezuela would grant him safe conduct. Otherwise, he said, he would empower a legal representative to bring her to the United States.

Man Seeking Shelter Of Car Doors Killed

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

It must be a genuine thrill for a guy like Elmer Rice . . . I mean it must be swell to be Elmer Rice and write a classic like 'Street Scene' for the stage and then, when Hollywood wants it for the camera, to be able to say to them: "If you want my play then I must write the screen version." . . . No wonder it is such a masterpiece! . . . And that Sylvia Sidney person! . . . She is so natural . . . So herself . . . So Sylvia Sidneyish . . . And Beulah Bondi, Collier Jr. and Estelle Taylor are a few of the other Worth-Whiles in the large troupe . . . No more human and compelling manuscript has been toted down than this very fine moving picture . . . It tugs at your heartstrings so . . . It toys with your tear-ducts and chucks you under the chin, too . . . It is middle-class New York skillfully painted by an Elmer Rice Rembrandt, that's what it is . . . The Gershwin-touch is fitted for the incidental melodies and when they are violined and celloed against the skyscraping sector it lifts you out of your chair a little . . . I'm going to see 'Street Scene' again and learn something about black and white art . . . There will be critics, I suppose, who will point out that Hollywood has again triumphed over Broadway, and offer the movie version of 'Street Scene' as a reminder of the fact . . . A stiffer reminder, I think, would be for Broadway and The Stage to remind Hollywood that 'Street Scene' was a smashing hit as a play, and for that matter, all the stage wallops eventually became camera-made achievements . . . It is a trademark of someone that genius does what it must, but talent does what it can.

It might make a funny sequence for a movie, I think . . . That scene in that Long Island roadhouse undressing room the other midnight, I mean . . . When the squaw of a prominent Long Beach man walked into the place and banged a cutie right on her kissables . . . But such a punch! . . . Then the Wife Whose Man Was A No-Good nonchalantly walked away . . . The terpsichorine it appears had just received a huge bouquet of posies from the two-timer, who ankled into the night club after the big scene . . . He didn't know that his wife had been there and struck his sweetheart . . . So he was offended terribly when the girl ignored him . . . So he gave her a slap on the nose, too—thinking she was ritzing him after sending her all those nice flowers and everything . . . Wonder what happened to him when he got home? . . . Nearly all the gangsters you meet aspire for higher things . . . They want to rise above themselves, after they make their catch, but simply do not know how . . . That bandit last night, Irinstance . . . He was discussing the horror of success . . . "When we all lived on the sixth floor of an Eighth Avenue tenement," he was saying, "everything was swell . . . Soon as we moved to Fifth Avenue, three of my brothers got killed and on the first floor, too!" . . . Oh, well. That's Africa!

A pleasant flippancy is the one which is aimed at two chorine girls who were the sweethearts of the same man . . . But they didn't know it . . . That's what you call a couple of Broadway sisters-in-law, observed a cynic . . . Wonder if it is true that every time Edward G. Robinson, the clever chin-ema actor, is the guest of honor at a dinner he always responds with the same speech he delivered during the banquet in "Little Caesar" . . . I'm still laughing at the breeziest quip of the day from Fanny Brice who vowed that she didn't remember its source . . . Well, no matter. An optimist is a guy who leaves his door open all night, hoping that his wife will walk in!

She probably will have her neck bruised, I'm afraid . . . That former night club girl who is desperate for coin and is shaking down former bosses and others for money . . . She is getting away with it, too . . . She phones them and says: "I didn't tell the cops all I knew about that shooting, so you'd better kick in with plenty." . . . And they are kicking in heavily . . . She phones married men she was out with show girls and puts the touch on them in the same manner . . . No good can come to that cutie, and if she persists with some of the less yellow ones, she most likely will be running around like a chicken with its alimony cut off . . . To hear them explain it in the darker corners, the reason that Philadelphia chieftain was knocked off is that he was one of Mr. Capone's more able representatives in the East . . . And that killing all of Capone's Biggies might prevent him from coming into New York . . . The theory being that when the heads of the outfits are stilled it breaks the morale of the gang . . . The papers confirm the argument that most of the trouble is arranged by the smaller fry . . . The mighty ones have coin and want to enjoy it.

That book "Windfall" by Robert Andrews would make a grand camera amusement . . . What a plot . . . A man leaves $10,000,000 to 10 strangers whose names were selected out of the directory . . . They drew a million each, and the only proviso in his will was that, at the end of two years, they all must see his lawyer and tell him what they had done with the money . . . There always will be a barrier between critics and actors and managers, I guess . . . You can toss a posey at them for 20 years and they'll call you a Grand Person . . . But toss them a scallion on the twenty-first year and you're still a Baddie! . . . It is amusing, indeed, to hear the reports of the "Vanities" troupe who disagree with this spectator's observations . . . The old alibi used to be that critics huddled between acts and conspired against them . . . The "Vanities" lads, however, have a new attack . . . His pal wrote sketches for the "Follies," so what can you expect?" . . . Aristotle said it in fewer words—that the guest and not the cook is the sole judge of a dinner.

Patricia Pitt

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

It's quite impossible not to get enthusiastic about the Westmoreland Hunt horse show, though it is not to be held until September 18 and 19, because it is always such an exciting event, and draws such smart spectators. Entries, of course, are already pouring in for the affair.

Among those whose names are listed entries are Miss Sophie Patterson and her [illegible] daughters. Nancy and Joan are always seen at and [illegible] shows, and Mary Louise [illegible] also there are George H. [illegible] J. Raymond [illegible] H. Norton Van Voast [illegible] wickley and [illegible] Hunt team; Mrs. W. A. Stevenson [illegible] and from Indiana, Mrs. Jack [illegible] and L. W. Robinson.

As usual, there [illegible] news. The Sewall Wakefields, John H. Kregs are of the Rose- [illegible] set. Judge Gotham.

Travel News

The Dalzell Gilmores of Sewickley were in Baden-Baden recently as were Dr. W. F. Kreutzers, the Arthur Babcocks, the John Wallaces, Arthur Brown, Harry G. Bockenmaier, the Alfred Dickeys, Mortimer Lane and Katherine Read, all of Pittsburgh.

DESIGNERS PRESENT TWO NEW MODELS OF THE LATEST MODE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 3. — Something new here every day. Especially interesting today are the two models sketched. Cheruit's model for morning or afternoon wear is of dull, darkish red fine wool revealing a fancy weave. At the front of the bodice a loose panel forms a plastron. This is attached only at the shoulders and is caught down beneath the belt at the waistline. Through it laces a soft scarf of plaided silk, running vertically. Similar loose panels are attached at the elbow and wrist to trim the sleeves. A narrow, deep godet and two shorter but wider ones at the sides, give a circular silhouette to the skirt.

* * *

IRENE DANA gives us an exquisite dinner gown of pale pink satin. The entire dress is composed of diagonally cut godets fitting snugly at the bodice and hips and flaring gradually to the edge of the skirt. A band of pink camelias cross the belt at the front. The little lace bolero with long sleeves is of deeper pink lace, almost, in fact, a wine shade.

* * *

NOTHING, YOU SEE, very Second Empirish or Victorian about either of these two models—yet they are the very latest creations of two of the most exclusive couturiers. It takes a long time to make women accept so radical a fashion change—particularly since they have been so comfortable and attractive in the casual models of the last seasons.

325 REFUSED GUN PERMITS

Of 400 applications for firearms permits filed at the Sheriff's office, only 75 have been granted, it was announced today. Permits were refused 325 because insufficient reasons for the necessity to possess firearms were advanced.

More than 250 applications have been filed with Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, he said today. Most of the applications were from bank and payroll messengers and business men who are accustomed to carry large sums of money.

Walsh said issuance of permits would not be started until tomorrow because the permit blanks from the state printer did not reach him until today. Walsh plans to personally supervise the granting of permits.

Permits for dealers to sell firearms under the new act, which became effective Tuesday, will also be ready for distribution tomorrow.

West Penn Fights Freight Truckman

Complaint of the West Penn Railways Company that P. A. Bingaman was transporting freight between Pittsburgh, Irwin, Jeannette, Greensburg and Latrobe without a certificate of public convenience was being aired before Public Service Commissioner W. E. Best today.

According to Attorney Carroll Caruthers, representing Bingaman, he is carrying out a contract he entered into with a number of Pittsburgh business men which does not conflict with rules of the Public Service Commission. His contention, he said, is supported by a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court.

"Where have you been all my life?"

When the right one comes along . . .
This been-waiting-all-my-life feeling has hit millions of smokers, men and women both . . . when they broke open their first Chesterfield package and caught its more pleasing aroma . . . when they lighted their first Chesterfield and knew, that minute, that it was milder—not sharp or biting.
And after a few puffs, they knew that the taste was better. Here were the cigarettes they had always hoped for, and looked for.
Here were cigarettes that satisfy! Satisfy—that's the word that "fits." The right tobaccos—the CHESTERFIELD kind of tobaccos, Domestic and Turkish—cured and aged, blended and cross-blended in the right way. Everything that goes into Chesterfield is the best that money can buy and that science knows about. The paper is just right. Everything about them is just right. Notice the difference.
They Satisfy . . . and—they're milder. Smoke as many as you like!
GOOD...they've got to be good!

Clear Skin—
rich, red blood cells will help you . . . .

"I was determined to have a clear skin."

"Some one told me of S.S.S. • • • now I am so glad the last pimple is gone."

Of course you want a clear skin. Everybody does. It helps you win and hold friends. It makes for greater popularity.

Whatever treatment you may use for your complexion, remember the important fact that skin health depends upon the right number of red-blood-cells.

More rich, red-blood-cells will help

A low red-blood-cell count often exhibits itself in one or more of the following symptoms—paleness, quick fatigue, lack of normal resistance to disease, pimples, boils and general run-down condition.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

You should know that S.S.S. has the distinct advantage of being composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form • • • it is Mother Nature's formula.

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

It is important to know that the red-blood-cells are the "ships" that sail in the blood stream and carry nourishment and oxygen to all parts of the body . . . they build and sustain—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

Whenever bad complexion or blemishes on the skin are due to a low blood count, or to a lagging appetite, the condition can be relieved or benefited by a course of S.S.S. If you are pale, or languid, give S.S.S. a trial. It may help you as it has helped thousands of others. It builds red-blood-cells. It is a splendid tonic.

(Upper) Microscopic view of healthy red blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body; they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Lower) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Jack Dempsey's return to the ring is good news to the radio rajahs. It was Dempsey who did more to popularize receiving sets than any other single figure in the republic.

His matches with Prof. Tunney reaches 20,000,000 ears, gave radio the brilliant prestige it needed. It was because of the man once known as Manassa Mauler that a heavyweight championship of all the events on the air, is the greatest lure to the armchairs.

It would be good showmanship were Dempsey to place himself under the directorial hands of the broadcasters, let them build him up, let them beat the drum. They have managed everybody from aviators to opera stars. They should be able to manage Dempsey. Dempsey needs the broadcasters, too, now that Rickard has passed on. They, like Rickard, are experts in ballyhoo. And they would take full advantage of the appeal of the arena to the public when the heavyweights meet, particularly heavyweights with the drama and color of Dempsey and Firpo.

* * *

Sports broadcasting on a big scale really began with the Dempsey-Firpo fight. It may be that its anniversary will be celebrated by a return engagement between the same men. After the ring disappointments of the past few years on the radio such a meeting would be just the right razzle-dazzle before the inevitable international conflict of Dempsey and Schmeling. What? Firpo might win? Don't be silly!

* * *

Books labeled, "How to Write for Radio," continue to tumble out of the presses. As in the theater, the hardest job is not how to write for radio, but how to sell your product after it has been written.

Were all the books that have been published on how to write for the stage or the screen laid end to end they would reach from here to the Congressional Library. Now it is radio that furnishes new inspiration. And the radio hurdle is as difficult to clear as any ever provided by the theater or movie lot.

* * *

The lords of the air are ever sounding a call for radio material. The response is always prompt and plentiful. But little of it—a minute proportion of it—finds an approving nod in the broadcasting salons. The radio rulers prefer to rely upon their experienced script writers, continuity scribblers.

MARY BURKE SAYS "YES" TO A CHORUS OF "NEIGHS."

LIQUOR ON SHIP RESULTS IN 4 OUSTERS

Others Under Investigation At Annapolis and May Be Forced to Resign

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The charges against the four midshipmen forced to resign from the U. S. Naval Academy, one of whom was Earl S. Schweitzer, Meadow street, McKeesport, it was learned today, included attempts to smuggle liquor aboard ship, intoxication and telling falsehoods.

They were the first of a group of Middies charged with misconduct during their summer training cruise to European ports. Investigation is continuing in the other cases.

The three other resignations were those of George R. Fink, New Jersey; Colwell E. Beers and John R. Parks, Missouri. Their class graduates in June.

At the Schweitzer home last night it was learned the family had not been informed of their son's action.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 3.—(AP.)—The four midshipmen who resigned in the face of charges of misconduct filed upon their return to the Naval Academy from the annual summer practice cruise were kept incommunicado aboard the station ship Reina Mercedes here last night.

They probably will remain until the end of the week.

PUMPING UNIT CORNERSTONE SET IN PLACE

Project, Hailed as Milestone, Refutes Waste of City Funds, Lang Declares

Characterized as a milestone in the path of Pittsburgh's progress, the new $900,000 Brilliant pumping station was on its way to construction today, following cornerstone laying exercises by officials yesterday.

The ceremony took place in a heavy rain. President John S. Herron of City Council wielded the trowel that set the stone in place. In sealing the stone, he said:

"The taxpayers appreciate these improvements, but they must remember they cost money. However, we are spreading out the cost of our many improvements so they will hardly be noticeable in the tax millage."

LANG DENIES WASTE

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, preceding Herron, declared:

"Not one cent of the taxpayers' money is being wasted by the present administration. Such projects as this one show what is being accomplished."

Other speakers included James H. Kennon, managing engineer of the City Water Bureau; Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Pittsburgh Traction Conference Board, and Councilmen John M. Phillips, Robert Garland and Clifford B. Connelley.

Mayor Kline, who was on the program, sent word he could not be present because of inclement weather and a heavy cold.

DRIVEN BY ELECTRICITY

Having a daily capacity of 160,000,000 gallons, the new plant will be electrically-driven. It will replace the obsolete steam plant adjoining, which was built in 1870.

Adequate pumping facilities, according to the Bureau of Water, will provide pressure for commercial and residential use in the highest sections of the city without interruption. Six pumping units will be used.

PINCHOT AIDE DECLARES ACT ILLEGAL

Sheriff Seaman's Alleged Order Held Violation Of Essential Liberties

Threats of Sheriff J. A. Seaman, of Washington County, to close a striking miners' soup kitchen at Avella unless picketing ceases, are illegal, according to Stephen Raushenbush, special investigator of Gov. Pinchot. As a matter of law a sheriff can not close a relief station as a nuisance, as Seaman was alleged to have characterized the Avella station, he said.

A report of his investigation today had been sent by Raushenbush to the Governor.

The report made by Raushenbush for Gov. Pinchot declared the Sheriff called the kitchen a "public nuisance" and said he would carry the case to court if necessary to enforce the ban. The picketing, the Sheriff claims, according to the report, is dangerous to school children. Raushenbush declared:

"Both of the Sheriff's acts appear to be violations of essential liberties which have been preserved throughout the strike. If a Sheriff assumes the right to stop a picket line, that would be the end of the constitutional right. Neither the United Mine Workers nor the state police have asked the Sheriff to abolish the picket lines. Nor are they disorderly, according to all reports. As a matter of law the Sheriff cannot close a relief station as a nuisance."

A protest regarding the alleged threats was sent by the Miners' Relief Fund of the Socialist party to Gov. Pinchot and referred to Maj. Lynn G. Adams, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Police, according to Mrs. Sarah Limbach, secretary of the fund.

NOODLES FAGAN DIES IN FRANCE

Lawrence C. (Noodles) Fagan, who began life in Pittsburgh as a newsboy and in later years won the name of "king of the newsies," is dead in Marseilles, France, relatives here learned. His death occurred while he and his wife were making their fifth trip around the world. Typhoid fever, contracted while he was on his way to the Holy Land, caused his death in a hospital in the French city.

Fagan, who won national prominence as a newsvender, evangelist and vaudeville entertainer, was 54 years old. He retired from vaudeville seven years ago, and since had been devoting his time to writing on his travels and experiences.

He was born in Altoona and a number of years ago established his residence in California.

He leaves his widow, two sons, Ralph and Paul Fagan, of Pittsburgh, and two daughters, Blanche and Mary Fagan, of Long Beach, Cal.

Relatives here said today that the body probably would be brought to the United States with burial in Pittsburgh or California.

$110,000 ASKED IN 3 SUITS

Alleging she fell from the sidewalk into a hole on Rosslyn road, Carnegie, May 15, 1930, Mrs. Jennie McIntyre, of that borough, filed suit against the Borough of Carnegie in Common Pleas Court seeking $40,000 damages for injuries.

Asking $50,000 damages for injuries when his automobile truck was alleged to have been forced across a sidewalk and against a porch on Butler street, Etna, by a street car, August 27, Farris Fraed, of Ford City, filed suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cavanaugh, of McKeesport, asked $20,000 damages for injuries to their son, William, 11, in a suit against Ethel Kurtz, of McKeesport. They alleged her automobile struck the boy May 26 on Fifth avenue, McKeesport.

MATE FORGIVES ELOPING WIFE

The glamour and romance of the elopement of a 38-year-old matron with a married man a year ago has vanished, Mrs. Alice Wilson, of Wilkes-Barre, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today. She and her three children are going back to her husband, who has forgiven her, she said.

Mrs. Wilson was prosecuting witness against Robert Youst, 42, of 711 Madison avenue, who was held for court on a charge of aggravated assault and battery. Bail was fixed at $500.

Mrs. Wilson testified Youst deserted her on August 15 and then returned to their rooms in Robinson street, North Side, and beat her and threatened to cut her throat. She caused his arrest. She said the Family Welfare Association had been feeding her and her three children.

Youst is said to have a wife and eight children living at the Madison avenue address. At the conclusion of the hearing, Youst borrowed $1 from the woman who is said to be his legal wife.

800 ELECTRICAL MEN TO MEET

Eight hundred members of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors are expected to attend the joint convention of the Eastern and Western sections to be held here September 14-17.

Dr. Phillips Thomas, Westinghouse research engineer, and other speakers are to reveal the most recent developments in the radio and electric industry. A novel feature of the convention is to be the construction of the "Red Flame House" on the seventeenth floor of the William Penn Hotel. A contest among the attending inspectors involving the number of errors in its wiring and electrical equipment is the object of its construction.

CHIEF RESIGNS IN SWISSVALE

Chief of Police William Campbell, of Swissvale, said today that he had resigned.

Burgess William T. Pyle said he had heard Campbell had resigned, but had not been notified to that effect. The burgess it was learned, has appointed William R. Cusack, motorcycle patrolman, in charge of the day force, and Night Lieut. A. A. Farina in charge at night.

Campbell, charged by the burgess with conduct unbecoming an officer, and for the good of the service, was asked to resign by council at their last month's regular meeting.

His resignation followed a complaint from Steve Johnzowich, 41, of West Winfield, who said the officer broke his jaw. Campbell reported that Johnzowich was arrested August 1, after it was alleged he attempted to attack a Nevada street woman, and that the man was injured in a police station of another borough where he was originally arrested.

It is understood that the chief will be appointed a motorcycle patrolman following next week's council meeting.

Gets Home to Find Friends Gave Him Fine Funeral

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—John M. Keenan had ham and eggs for breakfast this morning after having convinced the coroner's office a funeral held for him a fortnight ago was somewhat premature.

His old friend, Harry McGarry, two weeks ago strolled through the morgue. Suddenly he stopped short and said:

"Well, if it isn't my old friend, John."

So Harry cabled John's brother in Ireland and gave the necessary orders to an undertaker. John returned yesterday and explained that he had been "traveling around a bit."

DORMONT FIRE ROUTS SIX

County Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr today was to investigate a fire which started in the rear of the first floor of a three-story apartment house at 3040-42 West Liberty avenue, Dormont, damaged the room to the extent of $1,500 and drove three families to the street.

The fire was discovered by Henry C. Vollmar, living on the second floor. He aroused his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Darragh and their small daughter, and Mrs. Emma Laur, other occupants of the building, and then sounded an alarm.

A dog belonging to Dr. W. C. Rohrkaste in a nearby building barked and awakened his master about the same time Vollmar aroused occupants of the burning building.

Chief of Police Ralph Miller forced his way into the rear of the first floor occupied by the Hirsch Upholstering Company, and discovered the source of the fire. Firemen subdued the blaze, which for a time was spectacular, after a fight of an hour. Fire Chief William Elcock estimated the loss.

Nervous Girl Driver Hurt in Auto Crash

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—A young woman motorist was in a critical condition in a hospital today after a disastrous attempt on her part to quiet her nerves.

Police said the girl, Miss Jean Hanley, 21, had visited a police station to intercede for several men arrested as street loungers. While waiting she apparently became upset by her mission and left the station to drive around awhile to regain her composure. At Broad and Chestnut streets her automobile suddenly ran up on the sidewalk, swerved and crashed into a street car. Miss Hanley was badly injured.

Maybe Our Own Fences Do Need Some Attention

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER.

Mr. Hoover has postponed the inevitable budget while he is engaged in the innocent bystanding of watching business.

If the future of America depends on the stabilization of Europe it looks like us vegetarians will soon be dining on seaweed up Salt Creek.

Trying to stabilize Europe is like playing foxtrot music for waltzing mice. It sounds pretty. But doesn't change the dance.

We have passed the kind-hearts-and-willing-hands stage in this crisis. Soft diplomacy may turn away bitter reparations, but Old Man Jenks had the right idea about stabilization.

He used to lead his balky mule to the door of the stable, kick it in the pants and the old mule would march in and stabilize himself.

Wouldn't it be a better idea to postpone Europe for a couple of years?

If we have to tear our hands on barbed wire let's do it mending our own fences.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT HERRON WIELDING TROWEL AT CORNERSTONE LAYING EXERCISES

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 3.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

California will stay ahead in everything or bust—even depression. A guy out here yesterday robbed the poor farm. I think Mr. Hoover overlooked Owen D. Young on his first relief committee and all papers commented on it and to make up for it he appointed him on a special one. Asking a Democrat to feed the country is almost a "Believe It Or Not."

Young is in a tough spot; if he feeds 'em through the winter he will only be keeping 'em alive to vote the Republican ticket next fall. Voters don't remember back over two months. Yours, WILL.

Youth Must Behave Until Burgess' Term Ends

If Frank Gomerach, 21, of Rankin, is brought before Burgess William T. Pyle, of Swissvale, within the next two years and four months, he will be sent to the workhouse, the Burgess warned Gomerach yesterday.

Gomerach, arrested by Police Lieut. A. A. Farina, had in his possession a raincoat stolen from Burgess Pyle's automobile several days ago, it was charged. The young man, charged with being a suspicious person, said he had found the coat.

Discharging Gomerach, the Burgess said:

"If it was anybody else's coat but mine, I would send you to the workhouse. I have two years and four months to serve as Burgess, so stay away from my car and keep out of my sight for that length of time."

Seeks Return of Lost Bible, Gift of Sweetheart

A Bible presented to Alex Cameron, 23, of Fairfield avenue extension, Homestead Park, by his sweetheart as a Christmas present, is lost and he wants it back.

Cameron inserted an ad in the "Lost" column of the Sun-Telegraph, offering a reward for the return of the book, a students' Bible. He said it was valued chiefly for sentimental reasons.

He attended a Bible Club meeting at the home of Irvin Kiddy, 527 Brookline boulevard, Saturday night. In leaving he placed the Bible on the running board of his car while he opened the door. He forgot he had placed it there until he reached home. It had dropped off en route.

M'GOVERN SEES NO TAX CUT

Congress Commissioner Charles C. McGovern at the noon meeting of the Independent Republican headquarters announced that there cannot possibly be a reduction in county taxes next year. He placed the blame on County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong. He said:

"Armstrong in control of the Commissioners' office, has spent, obligated or permitted the waste of so much of the county funds that a reduction of taxes next year will be an impossibility.

"Last year the county expended for bond interest, sinking fund, etc., $7,635,967.10. Compare this sum with the county expenditures for general purposes, aside from roads and county parks, of $8,758,714.77, and some conception of the appalling state of county finances will be gained."

Other speakers were Councilman Robert Garland, candidate for re-election, and J. Garfield Hoskins, brother of Councilmanic candidate J. D. Hoskins.

D. F. C. Ferrante speaking at the Lincoln School, Bridgeville, for the Independent Republican slate attacked Commissioner Armstrong's policy and praised Commissioner McGovern.

His proclamation said that he was convinced that the experience obtained during the dictatorship now permitted a definite organization of state institutions and that he intended carrying out a national policy on a basis of direct collaboration with the people.

The new constitution assures civil liberties and political rights similar to those in Western European countries as well as liberty of the press.

CANDIDATE TO SEEK AUDIT OF COUNTY POOR BOARD FINANCES

WOULD PLACE FACTS BEFORE GRAND JURY

Schuchman Declares Public Wants Information; Will Confer Further With Park

An effort to have an audit made of the financial affairs of the Allegheny County Board of Poor Directors and a report made to Quarter Sessions Court and the grand jury will be made by K. William Schuchman, candidate for Poor Director, instead of instituting "quo warranto" proceedings against the board, Schuchman announced today.

Schuchman, who has been holding conferences with District Attorney Andrew T. Park, said he believes the public wants the audit and that the law provides for it. An annual audit is provided for in the Act of 1852.

Schuchman said he had no wish to harm any person unless it becomes necessary in performing a public service. He said he and his attorney, Alex Gilfillan, will resume their conferences with District Attorney Park soon.

INDEPENDENTS URGE BIG VOTE

The importance of a maximum registration by Republicans interested in better government was stressed by speakers at last night's rally in the independent Republicans' East End headquarters, 5901 Penn avenue. Joseph Howley opened the meeting and former Magistrate A. D. Brandon presided.

P. J. McArdle, candidate for City Council, said:

"Tomorrow begins the crucial test of the campaign. I believe that definite action will be taken. Thousands of men and women will be brought in to register on the last day, causing a tremendous rush. It may happen that this 'phantom registration' may occur in more districts and in greater number than the most pessimistic anticipate."

Other speakers were Alexander P. Lindsay and W. H. Coleman, candidates for Judge of Common Pleas Court; Martin H. Flannagan, for Judge of County Court, and Lee I. Shapiro and Miles Humphreys Jones, speaking in behalf of the candidacy of Joseph H. Reich, for Judge of Common Pleas Court.

MISS ANNA MAY BARBIN — E. W. JUDY

R. W. HALLETT — W. A. RUCKER

Miss Barbin, revived by Duquesne Light line crewmen after being overcome by monoxide gas, looks on as Mr. Judy, vice president, presents cash, medal to Rucker and certificate to Hallett. Rucker was crew foreman, Hallett a helper.

Rothenberg Gags Police Station Campaigner

Dan Battles, 48, no home, learned from Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today that politics is not being played openly in Central Police Court.

Appearing before the magistrate on a charge of drunkenness, Battles tossed a card of Robert J. Alderman, candidate for re-election to City Council, saying:

"I was out campaigning last night, Judge."

Infuriated, Magistrate Rothenberg replied:

"I don't care who you are for. I don't want anybody dragging political tickets in here and trying to get away with something."

So saying he tossed the ticket back to Battles.

Battles got five days in county jail.

HERO AWARDS GIVEN 2 MEN

W. A. Rucker and R. W. Hallett, employes of the distribution department of the Duquesne Light Company, were given awards yesterday by E. W. Judy, vice president and general manager, for having saved the life of Miss Anna May Barbin, 18, of 392 Calderwood avenue, Ross Township.

Rucker, foreman of an overhead line crew in the northern division, received the president's medal of the National Safety Council and $50 in cash. Hallett, a member of Rucker's crew, received the National Safety Council certificate for valuable assistance.

The accident occurred last February 14, 1931, in Miss Barbin's home in Ross Township, when she was overcome by carbon monoxide gas while taking a bath. Rucker and Hallett, working in the vicinity, were called and applied artificial respiration methods. Miss Barbin was revived in 15 minutes.

Central Station Scene of Rally For Rooney

Asking the members of the City Detective Bureau to support him and the entire administration ticket at the coming primary, Representative James P. Rooney, who aspires to a seat in Council, addressed the sleuths last night at Central Station.

Rooney's remarks were very brief and were received without comment by his auditors.

The appeal to the detectives was made at Central Station. Last week Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh declared there should be no political meetings in public buildings.

CARRICK YOUTH DIES OF AUTO INJURY

Motorist Ordered to Post Bond; East Ohio Street Collision Injures Three

David Jenkins, 19, of 200 Nobles lane, Carrick, died last night in South Side Hospital from injuries suffered last Thursday when he was struck by an automobile while alighting from a street car at Brownsville road and Cedric avenue, Carrick.

Alvin S. Beyer, of 431 Oliver street, Carrick, alleged driver of the machine, was ordered to post bond at the Coroner's office pending an inquest.

Two women and a man were slightly injured when the automobile in which they were passengers was struck by a street car in front of 1802 East Ohio street, shortly after midnight. They refused medical aid.

Police said they gave their names as Harry Bowers, 35, of 3 Cherry way; Mildred Lang, 26, of 1700 East Ohio street, and Jennie Brush, 18, of 1582 Penn avenue, passengers in the automobile driven by Adam Karaics, of 423 Water street.

Mrs. Anna Reg, 53, of 8 Salter way, was injured when struck by an automobile at Spring Garden avenue and Salter way. Charles Inel, of 1121 Wisconsin avenue, Dormont, alleged driver of the car, took her to a physician and later to her home.

TROOPER INJURED

Two men, one a state trooper, were in the Ohio Valley Hospital at Tarentum today as the result of an automobile collision in Russelton late yesterday. They were Pvt. Jack Bradbury, 23, of 904 Hill avenue, Wilkinsburg, attached to Troop D barracks of the State Police at Butler, and Howard Fish, 29, of Colfax lane, Springdale.

The accident occurred, police said, when an automobile driven by Bradbury collided with a machine driven by Stanley Belinsky, a West Virginia resident. Bradbury received a fractured nose. Fish, a passenger in the Belinsky machine, was treated for lacerations. Fred McKinnon, of Detroit, also a passenger with Belinsky, received lacerations.

RADIO ON MOTORCYCLES

HOWARD BECK GIVING DEMONSTRATION FOR CITY OFFICIALS

Mr. Beck, Milwaukee motorcycle manufacturing firm official, exhibiting radio-equipped machine which he claims will replace or augment police scout cars now in use here and in other cities.

POLICE MAY GET RADIO CYCLES

The possibility that radio equipped motorcycles with side cars will replace the police radio squad cars now being used in Pittsburgh was hinted today by Samuel F. Kerr, local manager of the Harley-Davidson Company. He said:

"We have just furnished the city with 60 new motorcycles and it is possible they may at a later date be equipped with police receiving sets. The operation will be demonstrated to Director Clark today or tomorrow. He has already expressed interest in the new development."

Howard Beck of the engineering department of the Harley-Davidson Company in Milwaukee stopped in Pittsburgh to demonstrate to city officials the radio adaptation.

Cermak Leads Own Squad to Clean Up Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(INS)—Mayor Anton J. Cermak intends to clean up Chicago, if he has to do it himself. That was indicated today when he directed operation of a gambling and vice squad to operate under his personal orders.

Yesterday he telephoned the manager of a burlesque theater, saying terse:

"Clean up or be closed. I saw your show last night."

On three occasions yesterday he expressed vexation at the city's police force in failing to remedy conditions that he discovered in his rambles about the city alone and unrecognized.

BONAR DENIES FIRE MENACE AT SCHOOLS

Building Chief Declares Structures Comply With All Safety Requirements

Pending completion of Fire Chief Richard L. Smith's survey, now in progress, James Bonar, superintendent of buildings for the Board of Education, today issued a statement denying charges of Chief Smith that many of city's school buildings constitute fire traps. He said:

"There are no fire traps in our schools. All our buildings comply with all the state laws, city ordinances and the requirements of the fire underwriters. The Building Department is in daily touch with all schools, and a systematic supervision is maintained at all times by members of the department, including the superintendent and his staff.

The Superintendent of Schools and his staff are also in constant contact with the buildings.

"As the school buildings are always open for inspection, we are always ready for advice from the city department and willing to co-operate with them in every way with a view of having safety for the school children.

"Some of the older buildings, especially those which have recently been added to the city, have low ratings, but this does not necessarily mean that they are fire traps. The Fairview School, for instance, has just been equipped with fire escapes this summer. This school came into the city a year ago. The Westwood School is a similar case of a low rating. This building has two classrooms of modern construction on the ground floor. The low rating is due to the fact that it is attached to an old frame building, no part of which is used for classes.

"To say that a school building is a fire trap is a very serious and disturbing statement to make, and I emphatically refute any such assertion."

SHEER!—SHEERER!—SHEEREST!

Probably there ought to be a law against these new patented TISSUE CHIFFONS. They have a seductive sheerness not of 3 thread but of 2-thread wickedness! In the dear dead spendthrift days, before this patent, a 2-thread chiffon cost $2.25, $4.50 and upwards. Upon our first offering of these miracles, one patron bought 120 pairs. A customer wears a pair to a party and next day every woman there phones in for several. That's the kind of hose these are.

A Point! The Tissue Packing

Ordinarily even the very expensive sheer chiffons tend to show rings in the dark shades. But this special patented silk web is so utterly flawless that it can be packed individually over tissue forms. The tissue challenges you to detect the tiniest shadowing. Perfect for gifts, for a hostess remembrance, for a bridge prize.

Men Pay Dearly for Escapades With Other Women, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Nothing is easier than for a man to take up with a woman other than his wife.

Real cleverness these days is in being immune to the countless women who are on the watch for any man they can snare.

But no man with such an affair thinks it will end in public scandal or worse.

For the successful bait of these spider women is to seem the most amiable, careless-hearted creatures in the world to convince him it's all a merry lark to be ended as easily as it begins.

But when one has witnessed scenes and overheard the unspeakable rows that attend the ending of these affairs it is safe to say no man escapes again without paying dearly.

Germany's New Theatrical Season to Put Goethe Back on Drama Map

By GEORGE SEIBEL

BREMEN, Germany.

The theatrical season just opening in Germany will put Goethe back on the dramatic map. The reason for this is the coming centenary of his death in 1832. It will be observed all over the world, and Gerhart Hauptmann, Germany's greatest living poet, whom I met at Bayreuth, is coming over to America to help us in our memorial observances.

George Seibel

Hauptmann is coming as the guest of Columbia University and will make at least three addresses. His own seventieth birthday also comes in 1932.

The author of "The Sunken Bell" by the way, looks the spitting image of Goethe, and knows it.

The year 1932 will be a great year for Goethe and Hauptmann. On the night of August 28, this being Goethe's birthday, the Municipal Theater of Bremen produced "Faust" in the original version, known as the "Urfaust."

QUEEN VICTORIA PLAY

Goethe was continually altering, improving and enlarging "Faust." A few years ago a copy of his first version, made by Frl. von Goechinghausen, the witty cripple of the Weimer court, turned up among the lady's papers.

While "Faust," "Clavigo," "Stella" and "Iphigenia" are being revived, one curious novelty is promised this season at the Vienna Hofburg, next to the Comedie Francaise, the leading theater of the world.

Sil-Vara, the Austrian dramatist known by "Caprice," played by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, has written a play around the girlhood of Queen Victoria.

These Viennese dramatists are specialists in spice, but what can they get out of Queen Victoria even in the days of her youth?

EXPORTING SHAKESPEARE

Meanwhile England has started exporting Shakespeare to Germany. The other day a company gathered from English high schools, the Steward Headlam Shakespeare Association, came to Hamburg, playing "Othello" and "The Merchant of Venice."

Last year a company of German high school students had gone to London to play Kleist's "Zerbrochene Krug" ("The Broken Pitcher").

Shakespeare is still the favorite dramatist of Germany. He is played more than their own beloved Schiller.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

There is little indication of the stringent financial condition in German theaters. But in the newspapers there is much about a "maximum salary" plan which is to be put into force.

This means that great stars, of which there are few, though fine actors are many, cannot hold up the management of the theaters where they are engaged.

Tell it not in Hollywood, where I see the kings and queens of the screen are practicing rigorous economy. This I learned from a copy of the Ladies Home Journal which was hanging in a newsdealer's window shamelessly beside the Police Gazette.

In the land of Goethe, educational opportunities are unlimited.

New Films Today and Friday

Paramount has brought the four juvenile characters of "Tom Sawyer" together again for another talkie based on a Mark Twain story. They are Jackie Coogan, Mitzi Green, Junior Durkin and Jackie Searl, and this time they are in "Huckleberry Finn" coming to the Fulton today.

Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor are teamed together in "Merely Mary Ann," opening in the Stanley tomorrow. Harry Langdon, movie comedian, will appear on the stage in Dick Powell's show "Melody Lane."

Joan Crawford, star of "This Modern Age," coming tomorrow to the Penn, has started to give away her famous collection of 2,000 dolls. She is giving them to orphans' homes and individual children. Miss Crawford's latest vehicle is a tale of modern youth. Pauline Frederick, who has not been on the screen in some time, Neil Hamilton, Hobart Bosworth and Monroe Owsley are in the supporting cast.

TRAVELING MEN

Frank Albertson, who plays one of the featured roles in "Traveling Husbands," Radio Pictures' screen presentation, coming to the Sheridan Square tomorrow, uses his leisure moments for sculpturing in soap, a fad introduced by John Held, Jr. Other members of the cast are Evelyn Brent, Hugh Herbert, Constance Cummings, Dorothy Peterson and Rita LaRoy.

From the famous stage play by Max Marcin, "Silence" has been made into a talking picture and opens in the Warner Sunday midnight. Clive Brook, Peggy Shannon and Marjorie Rambeau head the cast.

"Politics," with Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, will be seen in the Enright next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"TEN NIGHTS" ON BOAT

"Ten Nights in a Barroom," featuring Vic Faust, the Swiss bell ringer in the role of Joe Morgan, will be presented by Capt. Menke's Players on the Golden Rod Showboat at Montrose next week. This is the drama that played to standing-room-only on the Golden Rod last season.

Billy Hagan, the leading comedian of the new Columbia burlesque production, "Satan's Daughters," which will open the season in the Academy with a matinee Saturday. Nazarro Hallo and Billie Diamond are also in the cast.

"Lover Come Back" and "Branded" is the double film bill opening in the Harris Saturday. Jack Mulhall, Constance Cummings and Betty Bronson head the cast of "Lover Come Back." Buck Jones is in "Branded."

Walter Winchell on Broadway feature will be found on Page 13 today.

The Girl

Meet Helen Chandler, who portrays the girl, Nikki, in Richard Barthelmess' new film, "The Last Flight," which will open the Davis Labor Day.

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Never, perhaps, have there been such amazing pictures of airplane flying as those of the National airplane races in Cleveland contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News and graphically described by the Globe Trotter. Practically all of the famous stunt fliers of the United States and Europe participate in this hair-raising exhibition. Not least of them is Al Williams, the intrepid American who performs some breath-taking stunts.

The Globe Trotter takes you aboard the giant DO-X as it completes her 12,000-mile journey from Germany to New York. It is a rare privilege indeed to participate in such a flight. There are intimate scenes of the life inside the cabins of the largest airplane in the world. The 70 passengers are shown dancing with as great ease and pleasure as though they were on solid ground. are shown enjoying their meals in the dining room and there are views of the splendid sleeping quarters as comfortable as a trans-Atlantic steamship.

SPILLS AND BOOMERANG

Spills and thrills galore mark the efforts of the cowpunchers who participate in one of the biggest rodeos ever staged in America. It is the annual event at Pendleton, Ore., in which cowboys from all over the West compete for honors.

Frank Donnellan, of Sydney, claims to be Australia's most expert boomerang thrower and proceeds to prove it in this issue of Hearst Metrotone News. He repeatedly hurls the curiously shaped piece of wood into the air only to have it describe wide circles and return to the hands of the owner.

PEASANT FESTIVAL

There are scenes of a queer and quaint festival in the streets of Salsburg, Austria, participated in by the peasants of the Tyrol, accompanied by music and singing and a grand costume parade. Alpinists crack great whips in a drill in the public square. At the end of the parade men wearing enormous headdresses march before the crowds.

Boreas blows either in anger or joy as beautiful French girls stage an open air beach pajama parade at Le Touquet. It is an unusual and artistic spectacle.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The fact that another picture was "switched" to show on a screen for which "Sporting Blood" had been announced causes J. H. Conwell to assume that the latter had been rejected by the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors. He writes to ask "How come?" as he had seen the film in another state and thought it very good. Well, J. H., you see, it's like this—"Sporting Blood" was not rejected, but passed, by our censors, and the change in bill likely was a matter of "policy" on part of the theater. House managers sometimes are funny that way. You know, with something like the strategy of rival baseball managers handling their pitchers, so do theaters sometimes handle their pictures.

Small Timer says that though depression-mongers may feel that the world is flat the large number of crooks prove that it isn't exactly on the level.

"Once in a Lifetime," which closes in New York Saturday night with a record of 401 performances will come to the Alvin October 5, it is announced. After a two-week vacation the company will reassemble for a road tour to begin in Newark on September 28, to be followed by engagements in Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Chicago. After which—more road.

Small Timer says he wouldn't mind health walks recommended by the doc, if the big pills and drops man didn't pass him so frequently in his car.

Musical films, which producers dropped so quickly, are coming back. Production schedules call for "Flying High" and "The Cuban," by M-G-M; "Girl Crazy," by RKO, and six with unannounced titles by Paramount. "Palmy Days" has been completed by United Artists. Fox will make three, "Merely Mary Ann," "Young As You Feel" and "Delicious." Universal and Tiffany also will do tune films.

Barrymore's Detective Next

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright 1931, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.

If Hollywood was a little belated in its appreciation of Lionel Barrymore, no one can accuse him of being neglected now.

With several weeks yet to go on the new Lubitsch picture, he already has been picked to play the detective in "Arsene Lupin." At some other time in the future, he also will be seen as the newspaper publisher in M. G. M.'s story modeled on the rise and fall of the New York World.

Lionel Barrymore

"Arsene Lupin is, of course, Jack Gilbert's final film under his million dollar contract at M. G. M. Jack plays the name role, a rogue of the Raffles type.

Marcel de Sano, who studied law in Paris, tried diplomacy for a while and later served in the Rumanian Flying Corps, will bring the Maurice le Blanc story to the screen.

LATEST GOSSIP

Larry Tibbett, Hollywood's newest reclaimed bachelor, has rented his wife's house until the end of October. . . . Jimmy Durante admits he has received only two fan letters in his life. One was from Spain and another from Canada. . . . Columnist John P. Medbury is very much annoyed. A film-struck girl invited him to a party and then had cards sent to the press naming him as one of the hosts. . . . George Arliss returns here towards the end of September to commence filming Clare Kummer's play, "A Successful Calamity." Warners are said to be seeking John D. Rockefeller's okay on the proposed Arliss film of the financier's life. If the plan goes through, it will be the screen's first biography of a living man. . . . Carmen Barnes is returning to New York to collaborate on a play. She is mysterious about it. . . . Reginald Denny is ambitious to swim the 28-mile Catalina Channel. He thinks nothing of five and six-mile stretches at Lake Arrowhead. . . . There will be speaking parts for 81 players in Paramount's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." . . . Humorist Ted Cook is recuperating from an appendicitis operation in a Southern California seaside resort. On the first day of his convalescense, he writes, they put him in a wheel chair and took him on a tour of the unsold lots.

RECLAIMED FROM SEA

Among its parts are a steering stand from the wrecked steamer Harvard, a wireless set from the Japanese steamer Asama Maru which was dashed to pieces in a storm off the California coast and a speaking tube from the German submarine U-B88. Most of its valves and gauges are relics of ships wrecked off the coasts of California and Mexico.

PITT COACH IMPROVES WARNER STYLE

THERE WILL BE much talk during the approaching football season about the relative merits of the Knute and Warner systems, both sadly misused by the average Saturday coach. Few are aware that Warner's system, as executed in the Notre Dame game of shuttling the ends inside the tackles, is different in many respects from the Warner system executed in the Pitt-Penn State game. Few are aware that Warner's system at Pitt has undergone many changes since Pitts burgh Panthers in action for the first time. Few are aware that Warner's system executed in the Pop

The first playoff game of the season will be staged this evening at Magee Field when the Reick and Reliance nines clash in the playoff series for the Commercial and Industrial League championship.

Reliance copped the first half title and the Reick outfit connected in the second half, and now one of the best playoff series of the season will get under way.

Manager Miller probably will send Dutch Spencer to the mound to try and annex the first game while Manager Stuhlfire will counter with Eddie Inhoff. Inhoff has been very successful against Reliance this season and feels that he will turn in another win.

In the Steel City League, Mifflin tangles with the East End Cards and Shoe hooks up with the Paquale club. Both teams are in the running for the league title and both must win to stay in the race.

Last evening's sandlot program in this district was wiped out completely by rain adding further to the long list of postponed games which must be accounted for before many of the league titles can be settled.

TECH COACHES CONTINUE TO SHIFT MEN

By JESS CARVER

The spotlight of intercollegiate football shifts today to the practice field at Duquesne University, where Elmer Layden calls together Duke varsity and freshmen hopefuls for their initial training camp workouts. A squad of some 40-odd men will report to Layden and his assistant, Joe Bach, with a like number being slated to say "howdy" to the frosh mentors, Buff Donnelli and Lou Skender.

Exactly 16 of the varsity players reporting today are lettermen. These include Abele, Barrett, Donahoe, Folio, Murphy, O'Donnell, Al Vennert and Capt. Mike Ferraro, linemen, and Chacko, Christina, Devenney, Pawlina, Sepsi, Sullivan and Tramboley, backs.

Two sessions were scheduled in Coach Layden's little notebook for today, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. This plan likely will be followed throughout the training season, which will last for 14 days. The opening game with Geneva, pilots open the local intercollegiate season on the night of September 18, at Forbes Field.

AND AT TECH

Yesterday's soaking rain failed to slow up the training drive out at Carnegie. Today the boys are looking forward to another red-hot scrimmage session, although it was hoped that Steffen and Waddell would relent somewhat and give the hard-working heroes a bit of a rest.

I believe he means it," squeaked Hooks Sample, the big guard who was suddenly tossed to the lions as a fullback in Tuesday's drill after Jedge Steffen gave the husky Ohioan another workout yesterday in the backfield.

Another victim of the good Jedge's sudden passion of converting linemen into backs, was Jack Croissant, the former Bellefonte Academy star, who, until yesterday, would have called you screwy had you ever hinted that he'd be a back. Jack is fast, and he was given an opportunity to test his speed in yesterday's muddy going. As a mudder, however, Jack wasn't so hot.

There is one thing about all the shifting about at Tech. The linemen will not be so prone to give the backs the old bird when they have off days in the future, and those backs who are slated to get tryouts as linemen, once they get 'em, will lose the idea that all the guards do is lean against the center.

Springfield Shot Wins Rifle Title

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Scoring 199 points out of possible 200, Harold D. Allyn, of Springfield, Mass., yesterday won the Wimbledon small bore match at the National Rifle meet here.

Allyn's target outranked that of R. Bradley O'Neil, Steubenville, O., who also had a 199. The match was 20 shots at 200 yards. Three men who tied at 195 were ranked as follows: Walter R. Stokes, Washington; Fred O. Kuhn, Stratford, Conn., and Sergt. Alex J. Thill, Washington.

Detroit Arena Gives Up Ring Promotion

DETROIT, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Directors of Olympia Arena, Detroit's sports stadium, announced today that the stadium management had withdrawn from the field of boxing promotion. At the same time the appointment of Louis J. Giffels as general manager was announced.

An adjustment of financial difficulties has been effected, it was stated, and the arena, closed for the greater part of the summer, will open by mid-September.

Buffalo Recalls Schoof From Miners

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Carl Schoof, leading hurler in the New York-Penn League with 23 victories against 5 defeats, has been recalled by the Buffalo Bisons and will report to that club tomorrow, Harry Jones, president of the Miners, announced yesterday. Schoof has been here on option from the Buffalo team.

The New York Yankees, it is understood, have been watching Schoof all season and probably will purchase him from the Bisons in the event he shows the same form in AA ball as he displayed here.

Time Out

The Joe Morbito-John Karris act, whom Morbito is razzing Karris about his heroism in saving the West View Park payroll from the clutches of bandits this summer, should be set to music. It would go over on big time note, especially if Dot Maxie Hannum was on hand to do a ring.

Buck Ewing, who is starting his final year at Carnegie, is looking better and better as a backfield man and may win his letter this year. Buck hits hard and knows what it is all about. In the past he's had to fight giants such as Karris and Morbito, who were just a trifle too tough.

Earle (Greasy) Neale, West Virginia's new grid chief, predicts the Mountaineers will win seven of their 10 games. It has been suggested that the West Virginia opponents cut cards for the privilege of being the three losers.

Nowhere in the district is the grid outlook as dismal as at Penn State, where graduation stripped the squad of all but a few lettermen. The Nittany Lions face a very, very tough fall, with a green eleven moving up against a tough schedule.

Harry Stuhldreher, Villa Nova's coach and quarterback of the Four Horsemen, has written a book on Knute Rockne, which will be on sale very soon. As far as I can find out, it is due about the middle of the month. Harry has treated his subject from an angle somewhat different than that employed by other biographers of the great coach.

I recommend it for an interesting evening before the fire.

Glenn Crowe looked over a squad of some 50 candidates as St. Vincent opened its training camp yesterday at Beatty. The Bear Cats will stage their first workouts today.

Howard Harpster, none too well fixed for backs, lost a valuable member of his entourage at Geneva yesterday when Paul Heffley, a letterman, suffered a severe shoulder injury, which will keep him on the shelf for some time. He's confined to a cot in Providence Hospital in Beaver Falls.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—In looking over the Athletics, I noticed the following weakness: (1) After he's pitched a dozen or 15 games, Lefty Grove is liable to lose one. (2) Al Simmons can be stopped from getting extra-base hits by pitching him four balls. (3) Jimmy Foxx is overweight from carrying a spare "X" on the end of his name, and you might sum up their biggest weakness by saying Connie Mack lacks experience as a manager because he's vice president of the club.

Nick Altrock

I see the Phillies are demanding $150,000 for Chuck Klein. You have to admire the nerve of a club that asks Babe Ruth prices for what it bought at the five and ten. If the Phillies management ever grabs 150 grand it will go out of circulation forever. The 150 grand, not the Phillie management.

PHILLIPS BEATS KAUFFMANN IN CITY PLAY

CHAMP LOSES, 1 UP; LALLY ALSO BOWS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

S. Walter Phillips caused the biggest upset the city golf championship has had in years when he eliminated Carl F. Kauffmann, the defending champion, by a margin of 1 up, in the semi-final round of the annual classic at the Schenley Park municipal links this morning.

Kauffmann has held the city championship for five of the last six years, having fallen only to Pat McDonough five years ago, and was headed for his sixth kingship, likewise, he has held the national public links championship in the past for three consecutive years.

PASIKOWSKI WINNER

Phillips, by virtue of his fine victory, tomorrow morning will engage Johnny Pasikowski, who took over another veteran Schenleyite, Francis Lally, by a count of 3 and 1. Lally made a valiant fight of it, but was unable to cope with the accurate shooting of the long-driving former Erie lad. The final contest will be at 36 holes with John Jay Burke and Bob Graham acting in the role of officials.

Final rounds in all divisions except the titular flight are being played at 18 holes this afternoon. The day is ideal for golf and as different as day from night in comparison to yesterday's miserable rainy weather.

In reaching the final Phillips put out his friend, Joe Platt, 6 and 5, in the first round; Archie Sekav, 1 up, 19 holes, in the second, and Kauffmann in the third. Pasikowski attained the title chance by eliminating P. J. O'Malley, 3 and 2; Andy Swedko, 2 and 1, and Lally.

Phillips played close to par golf going out, having a 34, while Kauffmann was two strokes worse. The advantage Phillips held at that stage, 2 up, was not to be sneezed at, for the second nine is by far the easiest on the municipal links.

Carl got away to a poor shot, dubbing a chip to the first green. His third was only two feet from the pin and he blew his chance for a half by rimming the cup. It was a tough putt to negotiate, he being forced to curl it in the hole.

SAVED BY PUTT

A long putt saved him on the second hole and they halved it in 4's. Kauffmann went 2 down on the third when he failed to negotiate another putt for a half, while Phillips got his par 4.

On the fourth, Carl was short with his second, and it was only a 10-foot putt that saved him there, Phillips being shy on his first tap. They recorded 4's.

The pair halved the fifth in par 3s, and Kauffmann missed an easy putt for a win on the sixth, and they halved it in 4s. The short seventh was level in par 3s.

The defending champ won one back on the eighth when Phillips three putted, getting a par 4 to Walt's 5, but lost it on the ninth when Phillips dropped a pretty birdie 3 from 12 feet.

Kauffmann was unable to gain a thing on the tenth or eleventh, halving matters in 4s on both holes, but he did recover sufficiently to cop the twelfth with a par 3. Phillips scoring a 5.

They evened again on the thirteenth in 3s, and then Phillips won two holes in a row, with par 3s, to make the match dormie 3.

Walter fell down at this juncture, Carl winning the sixteenth with a par 4 and the seventeenth with another par 4, in each case sinking putts of more than 10 feet.

Kauffman was short and Phillips on with their second shots on the eighteenth, and when Carl dubbed his chip and Phillips laid his first putt on the lip of the cup, a dead stymie, Kauffmann conceded him the match. The cards:

Kauffmann	out	4	4	4	4	5	4	4	4	36
Phillips	out	4	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	34

By JAMES MILLER

Natie Brown, Hebrew lightheavyweight of California, will be out to score his second knockout in three nights when he meets Billy Jones, Negro star, formerly of the Hill, but now of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight.

Tuesday night, Brown battered Presidio Pavisi, of Italy, into submission in five heats in the semi-final to the Charley Retzlaff-Joe Sekyra fracas in New York.

JONES RATES HIGH

In meeting Jones, Natie will find the going much tougher, for Billy is one of the best in the 175-pound class. Jones has a victory over the champion of that division, Maxie Rosenbloom, scored at Madison Square Garden last winter.

Brown came into town yesterday morning all set for a light workout at the Salvation Army gym, but was forced to postpone this till later in the afternoon, because Boxing Commissioner Dr. William D. McClelland wanted to impress on Natie that two fights in three nights is not good for anyone, and especially when it involved an infraction of the state boxing rules. The Commissioner gave his consent for Natie to fight when he found that the latter came out of his fight with the Italian without a scratch and is in good shape.

WARNER MELTS WILSON

In the second bout, Johnny Warner, Clairton bantamweight, meets Jackie Wilson, clever Negro, of Homewood, and Paul Balint, of the North Side, tackles Al Farrone, of McKees Rocks, in the curtain raiser. The show is scheduled to get under way at 8:45, daylight saving time.

California Coach To Quit in 1932

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 3.—(AP.)—Walter Christie, the University of California's head coach of track and field teams for 31 years, has obtained permission to retire.

In a brief letter to the executive council of the associated students, Christie made that request last night and it was granted immediately. He was asked, however, to stay until the end of the 1932 season. The council decided that when Christie retires it will be on two-thirds pay for life.

Between Rounds

Matchmaker Jules Beck, after securing the services of Bucky Lawless, clever Syracuse welterweight, to put Jimmy Belmont, the Braddock's pride and joy, to the acid test in the 10-round main go at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Tuesday night, has lined up a classy supporting bill. In the second bout he has Sammy Jim McVey, Negro light-heavyweight, matched with Chuck Taggert, of Butler, and I. S. Carpentier, veteran lightweight, of New Kensington, boxes Benny Goldblatt, of the Hill in the opening number. Indian Tiger Wiat, Brookline middleweight, will oppose Mickey Solomon, of New Castle, in the eight-round semi-final.

The Paul Ogre-Tiger Joe Randall fight postponed from Tuesday night, is back on the board for tonight at Foulis Bowl, East Liverpool, O.

Tommy Crawley, South Side lightweight, is boxing Johnny Gallo, of Yonkers, N. Y., at North Adams, Mass., tonight for the third time. Crawley holds a decision and a technical knockout over Gallo.

Marty Simmons, Saginaw, Mich., welterweight is back in our midst again. He refused to leave with Bernard Kent, McKeesport, who handled him during his fights here two years ago. Simmons has been going great in Michigan and would like to meet the best of the local welterweights. Benny McArthur, also returned from Michigan where he fought a draw with Benny Dolce last week.

SWIM MEET CARDED

Swimming races for Pittsburgh district mermaids and mermen are to be staged at the Manchester beach, North Side, at 1:30 Monday (Labor Day) afternoon.

LEADERS SPLIT DUAL BILL

Exactly half of the Middle Atlantic League schedules yesterday was washed from the board by rain, but the Johnstown Johnnies, splitting a double-header with Huntington, just about assured themselves of grabbing off the second-half pennant. They are three full games ahead of the second-place Clarksburg entry.

Johnstown won the first game yesterday, 11-0, with Galehouse limiting Huntington to seven scattered hits. The West Virginians took the second, however, 7 to 3.

Beckley nosed out Wheeling, 5 to 4, in a game in which both teams secured 11 safe hits. Query went the route for Wheeling, Clarksburg hit at timely moments to defeat Cumberland, 6-4, while Powell held the Colts to four hits.

YOUNG WINS LONG SWIM

TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—George Young of Toronto, who won fame four years ago by taking first place in the 26-mile Catalina Island swim, but failed time and again to win the swimming honors of his own home town, yesterday conquered the cold waters of Lake Ontario to win the annual 15-mile marathon swim at the Canadian National Exhibition and the first prize money of $10,000.

Brazing water which at 58 degrees forced all except a few of the 180 starters out in the first few miles, Young ploughed along at a steady rate to finish over an hour before the second man, Bill Goll, of New York. Young was timed in 8 hours 8 minutes and 26 seconds for the 15-mile grind.

Young trailed Giovani Gambi, of Italy, through the first six miles of the grind, then took the lead and never was headed. At the finish he was more than a mile in front of Goll, who moved up along with him most of the way. Goll finished an hour and 18 minutes after Young to take the second money of $2,500.

Marvin Nelson, winner in 1930, stuck with the leaders for 12 miles before he finally succumbed to the cold.

Davies, Edwards Battle to Draw

PERRY ANNEXES SECOND WIN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—(AP.)—A youthful dashing young Englishman, Frederick Perry, yesterday swept through another tennis encounter on the Germantown Cricket Club courts to win for his nation and the international tennis series between the United States, England and France.

Continuing his play of Tuesday, when he defeated Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Cal., leader of the younger American players, Perry triumphed over Arnie Merlin, 19-year-old Frenchman, 6-1, 7-5, to score the fourth and winning point.

France ended yesterday's play with two points while the United States was yet to enter the counter column.

STOCK MARKET TUMBLES 1 TO 3 POINTS

J. I. Case Drops More Than 9 on Dividend Omission; Rail Issues Hard Hit

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP).—The first selling wave [illegible] of consequence in [illegible] weeks hit the stock market today.

Motor and accessory issues were [illegible] in considerable [illegible] Montgomery Ward dropped more than 6 points. General Motors, however, lost only about a point.

The sweeping declines in Berlin stocks, ranging in the main from 20 to 30 per cent, was much wider than the decline in world markets generally in the seven weeks period that the Boerse had been closed. The net decline in the New York market for that period is less than 10 per cent. There has naturally been considerable hangover of unsettlement abroad, despite corrective measures already taken in Germany and Great Britain.

In contrast to the slump in the New York market, the London market closed with a confident tone, largely reflecting rumors that the new government was developing means of new taxation which would not be severely unsettling.

Aside from the cash dividend omission, domestic trade and corporate news was meager.

WHEAT REACTS, CORN FIRM

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Scattered buying based on relative strength of Liverpool quotations gave wheat a semblance of strength at the start today, but the gain was lost when commission houses sold. Trade in corn was light but prices firmed upon appearance of some buying. Wheat started steady to ¼ cent higher, but reacted later. Corn opened steady to ¼ cent down and firmed afterward.

Wheat trade was small but the market had a heavy undertone. The December delivery sold at the lowest price of the current season. Stocks in five principal continental ports on September 1 totaled 6,435,000 bushels, an increase of 400,000 bushels in the last two weeks. Liverpool stocks continued to increase because many unsold cargoes were diverted from ports of call to Great Britain. Russian shipments were smaller this week at 4,812,000 bushels, but still heavier than normal.

IT WAS PERFECTLY natural therefore that both American and French lenders should be interested in the financial condition and prospects of the British approach the enormous funds. And it was equally natural that the lenders should want to be satisfied before handing over the money that they were not taking unnecessary risks.

To allege as was done that international bankers assumed the role of political dictators is ridiculous. Close observers of men of the character of Premier MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden [illegible] themselves to any "wicked plot" to depose their own party from power at the command of [illegible] bankers. Their [illegible] was prompted by [illegible] patriotism but by base [illegible] motives.

R. J. CROMIE [illegible] publisher of the Vancouver B. C. Sun, who has [illegible] widely and favorably [illegible] offers this column the following suggestion after reflecting on the British-German financial crisis:

"The solution of England's and North America's unemployed and economic trouble has still to be worked out, that solution is more trade. And as I see it, the only place in the world to develop increased trade is with the one billion people of China, India and the rest of Asia. Productive action on Asia trade won't come until our President Hoover and our Premier Bennett and possibly England, get together on some big credit-economic program for China.

"When the great war started, people thought it would be over in a few weeks or months. But it didn't end until the world got together. And fiddle around as they will, this unemployment and depression won't be over until the brains of capitalism find a way to extend profitably to China and Asia generally the benefits and high standards of living which have come to us in United States and Canada through modern methods and machine production.

"Economic statesmanship can do that, and in the doing of it can keep our millions of unemployed busy. We ought to rouse our people to that fact.

"What do you say?"

I agree with the worthwhileness of this objective. I am not so sure about the readiness of our leaders to institute prompt, effective action. That it is a task demanding better action cannot well be questioned.

NEW YORK STOCK Exchange is now doing less business in a whole day than it used to do in an hour. That's a good rather than a bad sign. It suggests that the stormy weather has completely blown over.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Leading sugar refiners have reduced the price of refined sugar 5 points to 4.30c a pound.

TRADE LEADERS WAITING FOR 'RIGHT TIME'

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Executives all over the country are waiting for the "right time" to push forward their construction plans. If the Federal government could only find a way to break the deadlock of depression by [illegible] action, they say, there would be no lack of [illegible] to start building. Many projects are ready to go, and only the [illegible] of the general picture [illegible] delaying them.

Mr. Rukeyser

"There are several new projects on all of our offices. We do find, however, a reluctance on the part of prospective clients to name any definite date for the start of actual construction work, due of course to business depression with the attendant clouding of the future.

TENDENCY TO DELAY

"To illustrate this situation perhaps more specifically, we should estimate that we are in touch with certainly not less than $25,000,000 of contemplated construction projects. Some of these, of course, are included in the prospects of similar concerns to ours. One or two only of these projects hold out any hopes of prompt inauguration, and even in these cases a tendency to procrastinate is noticeable."

IDEA FALLACIOUS

[illegible] of the [illegible] that there is [illegible] in this country [illegible] there are [illegible] of everything. The [illegible] shot through with [illegible]. The country probably will never [illegible] the saturation point—certainly not before the millennium. The [illegible] production is more apparent than real inasmuch as millions are at present undernourished and underequipped.

The City of New Orleans is pursuing an enterprising course in installing a new and better system of fire sprinklers on her docks. The city will cash in on its investment not only through the prevention of economic losses resulting from recurrent port fires, but also in substantially lower insurance rates.

The opportunity of this period lies in developing a product or service which will enable purchasers to economize.

VALLEY PIPE RATE FIRM

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 3.—Manufacturers operating the facilities of Mahoning Valley steel companies show maintenance of former operations [illegible] and in mill departments which began the first of the week. Of 66 open hearth furnaces, 26 are melting with finishing mills operating 35 percent.

Accumulation of steel pipe orders, or possible for manufacturers of this product of the district, Republic Steel Corporation reports all three of its pipe units with mills and its plate mill.

Sheet mill operations are [illegible] with eight units [illegible] 7 the other [illegible] at Canton.

Tidal Oil Meets Magnolia Advance

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 3.—Tidal Oil Company, subsidiary of Tide Water Associated Oil Company, has posted a flat price of 68 cents a barrel for East Texas crude oil, meeting the quotation of the Magnolia Petroleum Company.

Raises Premium for Pennsylvania Oil

Crew Levick Company, a Cities Service Company subsidiary, is paying 15 cents a barrel premium for Pennsylvania crude oil, making purchases at $1.95 in the Titusville-Oil City district. Heretofore it has been paying only 10 cents premium.

Swedish Match Gets Nicaraguan Order

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The Nicaraguan government has contracted with Swedish Match Company for the purchase of 10,000,000 boxes of safety matches for use in connection with government monopoly.

Republic of Cuba Loan Is Renewed

HAVANA, Sept. 3.—Renewal for 60 days of the loan by Chase National Bank to the Republic of Cuba for $20,000,000, guaranteed by $40,000,000 5½ per cent bonds of 1945, has been announced.

Lone Star Negotiating for New Gas Properties

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

OPERATIONS OF THE LONE STAR Gas Corporation will be materially expanded if negotiations under way with the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company are successful. R. Seibel, secretary and treasurer of Texas Pacific, yesterday said that the agreement is still indefinite.

The gas properties involved in the deal have a production of 61,000,000 cubic feet a day. They are located in three counties in Texas. Lone Star's existing operations are sufficiently near these properties to make their acquisition desirable.

Other properties which may be included in the sale are a half interest in a Montana field on which a 6,000,000 cubic foot well has just been completed and a Canadian natural gas producing company.

The construction of a pipe line from El Paso, Tex., to gas fields in New Mexico, in which Lone Star would have an interest, is also reported to be under construction. This would give Lone Star access to an entirely new group of distributing systems in Texas.

Adds to Reserves

TEXAS PACIFIC COAL and Oil is not engaged in the distribution of natural gas. The proposed sale will not add to Lone Star's customers but will give it increased gas reserves and will make it possible to reach into new territory for business.

At the close of 1930 Lone Star operated 3,982 miles of pipe lines and served 299,593 customers either directly or through independent distributing companies. Its system served 270 communities in Texas and Oklahoma with a total population of over 1,500,000. Fort Worth and Dallas are the largest cities in the area covered.

Steady expansion through the development of the original system and the acquisition of new properties has marked the company's activities during the past six years. This was accompanied by a corresponding increase in earnings until 1930 when the decline in industrial demand prevented the company from reporting growth in business. Profits, however, have been maintained close to the record level.

Interest in Pipe Line

LONE STAR'S 30 PER CENT interest in the pipe line of the Northern Natural Gas Corporation will be an important contributor to future earnings. This line extends from the Amarillo gas field in Texas and the Hugoton field in Kansas into Iowa where a large group of communities is served. The line ultimately will be extended to Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn. Officials have estimated that Lone Star's earnings from its interest in this line eventually will exceed profits now derived from serving the city of Fort Worth.

The management of Lone Star is closely connected with the Columbia Gas and Electric interests. The importance of this relationship arises from the fact that Columbia has under construction the largest natural gas system in the world.

The directors of Lone Star Gas yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 22 cents a share. It is understood that earnings for the present year will cover this dividend rate.

MAY RECLOSE BERLIN MART

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—Due to heavy amount of selling which marked the reopening of the Berlin Boerse, there is some discussion in financial circles here regarding the possibility of closing the boerse again. Most of the selling came from marginal holders of stocks and small customers of banks, but it was noted that there were no foreign orders reported.

Socony Advances Price of Gasoline

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—An advance of 1 cent a gallon in tank wagon and service station prices of gasoline throughout its territory in New York and New England has been made by Standard Oil Company of New York. New prices in New York will be 16.3 cents at service stations including the 2-cent state tax, and 14.3 cents in tank wagon.

Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has advanced tank car price of United States motor gasoline ½ cent to 6 cents.

Local House Gets Three Bond Issues

Singer, Deane and Scribner, Inc., has been awarded $90,000 Borough of Greentree, Allegheny County, 4 per cent school district bonds; $30,000 Scott Township, Allegheny County, 4½ per cent school bonds; and $22,000 Franklin Township, Westmoreland County, 4½ per cent improvement bonds.

Gasoline Raised Cent in Denver

DENVER, Col., Sept. 3.—Continental Oil Company has advanced the price of gasoline at service stations here one cent a gallon to 19c, including 4c state tax. Other marketers followed the advance.

Tony Tells of Investigating Airplane Tragedy

CHAPTER XIX

He placed a chair for her, sat down himself on an Empire sofa, patterned, the upholstery threadbare. He stated, gravely:

"You no longer care for me."

He had explained nothing, as yet. But it was all easier than she had expected. She said, honestly, openly:

"No, Tony."

He spoke without accent. But his gesticulation was South European. A hand flung, palm up, a shrug of the broad shoulders under the well-fitting coat.

"I see. I had expected it. When, when you find out about me—"

"I began, she said, trying to be honest. I began to stop caring then. That was almost before I knew you. You don't know. But . . . I had always appreciated all you did and . . . And . . . for a little while—"

She hesitated and stopped and was annoyed to realize tears in her eyes. He watched her sensitive face, her quivering mouth, for her.

"For a little while we were happy. I see. I was in love with you—before. But I was afraid. You were so—so different. You were rather charming, you see. I was in love with you, Fanchon."

She started a little at the use of her name. She had not heard it for so long. Tony's dark eyes narrowed. He went on, smoothly:

WANTS MORE MONEY

"And I wanted to marry you. But I was afraid to ask you. So I planned instead to make my pile in England, last time to marry you there and take you away somewhere else and live in some place where we could live happily and never, never ever be 'the worst report of all you.' But I ended on a different trick," he said.

"No."

She looked at him. It was not pallor that she saw in his face, she perceived. He had grown a little heavier. He wore a tie pin of clear, sharp and expensive stones. He had a small, dark mustache. Yet there was certain lean hunger about him, even. His eyes looked sleepless. She began to be afraid. She knew the fear from his:

"Tony, I have known that your money is all gone," she said . . . and handed him the envelope.

He took it from her. He did not open it. He held it in his hand and regarded it. His face was expressionless. Presently he put it in an inside pocket.

"Very well then. I do. But it will not be enough. I might have more, much more besides. Not for myself alone. But for you also. So that we both can go away and start all over again . . . and you must help me."

She flushed. Her heart quickened its beat. She asked:

"But. How can I help you?"

He said, so serenely that she was deceived, just the sense of his words reached her:

As Mrs. Carstairs, since as Evelyn Howard . . . will it not be easy?"

She cried out then, clenching her hands on the fat plush arms of the chair:

"But I am not her niece! I am not Evelyn Howard! You know that as well as I."

Do not speak so loudly," he suggested. "I said we are alone. We are, for all practical purposes. But there are people—upstairs."

She said, low, shaken:

"Tony, what are you thinking? What do you wish me to do? Tell me, how you found me."

But the first time, quickness looked from her to his mask, a frenzied ugliness, set somehow tragic, for it was the expression of something both wounded and frustrated.

It was not hard. Yet you covered your tracks well. You did not wish me to find you. Fanchon."

She answered, low:

"No. Perhaps not. Tony . . . I was hunted through the streets by the very newsboys calling out—Oh, you know what they called! I wanted to get away from it all, to hide somewhere. I thought I might be found. I kept back questioned . . . forced to say what I knew of you."

LEARNED OF ACCIDENT

"You know very little. I took care of that. You would not have given the police much satisfaction. I wished to spare you all I could, however. Was it not that you were afraid for yourself rather than for me?" he probed.

"I was afraid for your sake, too," she whispered.

"I would have believed that once," he said, "but perhaps now. It doesn't matter much."

There was a silence. "What had he meant? 'It doesn't matter much?'"

I did not," he went on, "hear of the accident for some time. I was hidden where I heard nothing, saw no newspapers. Then much later I came across a reference to it, in connection with a rather similar disaster. I went to the libraries. I looked up the newspaper files. I sent someone I trusted out to Oakland to the airport. I was not then in California. I had word, authentic word, from that source that a Miss Smith had died in the crash. And that a Miss Howard had lived . . ."

He paused.

"For that," he said, "I don't forgive you easily."

Fanchon said nothing. There seemed nothing that she could say.

GIRL STILL ALIVE

"When I was able to, I went to the place where the accident had occurred. I wanted to talk with the people. To talk to the doctor. To see the grave . . ."

He laughed shortly and Fanchon's heart was sick within her. He added, I suppose I was sentimental. I felt also, resourceful. A murderer. Not," he added with smoothness, "that murder was anything very new in my life. But this was different. You, I'd sent you to your death. A horrible death. I used to dream about it at night. The . . . falling. Flames, perhaps. Agony. I'd wake up in a cold sweat . . ."

From me," he decided. She did not reply. Tony went on.

So I went there. I went direct to the doctor. It was easy to find him as he's the only one in the town of any consequence."

It was the doctor who told me that Miss Smith was still alive."

Synopsis

Young and beautiful Fanchon Merredith leaves San Francisco by airplane to escape arrest in connection with a murder in which her sweetheart, Tony, is implicated. She had not known that he was a gunman. Evelyn Howard, whom Fanchon had met on a voyage from Hawaii, is aboard. She is en route to New York to live with her wealthy aunt, Mrs. Allison Carstairs, whom she has never seen. The plane crashes and all but Fanchon are killed. Grasping the opportunity to start life anew, Fanchon goes to the Carstairs home as Evelyn. Mrs. Carstairs' affection wins her heart. At Southampton awaiting the arrival of her son, Colin, Mrs. Carstairs warns Fanchon not to take him seriously. He arrives and accuses Fanchon of being there under false pretenses. Colin objects to "Evelyn." Fanchon learns that Evelyn had indiscreet affairs with a naval officer and a native. Fanchon's sincerity in explaining that "her" indiscretion was only folly overcomes Colin's antagonism. A warm comradeship ensues and together they spend a happy summer. Colin and Fanchon love one another. He is prevented from confessing his love because of the blood carrier, and she because of her masquerade. Colin admits it to his mother. At her debut in New York Colin cannot resist professing his love. A few days later a threatening note comes from Tony. She visits him and repulses his advances.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Girl's Bragging Causes Her Much Embarrassment

The Producer

"And I'm gonna knock 'em cold!"

Dick Nally eyed Paula critically.

"You mean," he said, somewhat sourly, "that you think you're going to burn 'em up."

Paula laughed gaily.

The other girls in the office laughed—that is, with the exception of quiet little Yetta Warner. Yetta secretly adored Dick Nally and could never bring herself to laugh at him or at any joke directed toward him.

As Paula went over to her desk and got ready for the Saturday's half day, Dick, who had charge of the office supplies of the big corporation, came along with some stationery and left it on Paula's desk.

"Listen, Paula," he murmured, "I was serious when I asked you to take a ride over to Jersey with me and see my folks."

"Yeah?"

"Sure—aren't you going to come along?"

"But I thought—"

Dick hesitated. He had been attracted by the ultra-blonde Paula and had, at one time, thought she was beginning to fall for him.

"Take another think, Dick. Of course I don't want to waste half a day going out to a Jersey farm."

"My people wouldn't bite you," Dick said, hotly.

TELLS FALSEHOOD

"It ain't that, Dick, only I expect to—well, to meet some swell people down at the beach and I don't want to disappoint him."

"Him? Oh, a date, eh?"

Paula lied. She had no date. But she did have plans. These plans were to the effect that with her new clothes she might manage to become acquainted with some wealth-while chap, a sort of sporty and wealthy boy friend.

Dick went his way. While he was disappointed, he wasn't heart-broken, for he had not fallen in love with Paula. Had she given him any encouragement he might have done so—for a while at least.

Mitzi Vreiland, who typed at the desk adjoining Paula, eyed Paula with ill-concealed envy. Mitzi had to turn over most of her earnings to her mother and could seldom afford the gay clothes that Paula sported.

"Buh-lieve me," she said, "I have plenty men tryin' to get acquainted with me when I go to the beach and in this outfit I'll have to have a bodyguard."

"I'll bet," Mitzi agreed.

"That's the way to meet the regular ones. Honest, Mitzi, I know a girl who met a chap at the beach and he fell for her and married her and who do you suppose he was?"

OBSERVED BY MAN

"I'll say awful rich."

"Some girls have all the luck."

Paula turned to her typing as Mrs. Harmon, the office superintendent, came out to take a look at the little army of typists.

Dick noticed her carefully putting away everything and locking her desk. She seemed so quiet and lonely that he half pitied her.

"Say, Yetta," he said, "what's your program for this afternoon? You going to the beach to catch some phoney millionaire like some others I know?"

"I'm not going any place, Dick, except home."

"Listen, Yetta, why not drive out to Jersey with me? My folks live on a farm out there. It's nice and cool and there's a river to swim in and I'd have you home by midnight."

"Gee!" said Yetta.

"Let's go. I got my little car only three blocks over."

"I'd have to ask mother and change my clothes and——"

He took her home. Yetta's mother came out to see Dick about it and decided to let Yetta go.

Yetta had the time of her life and Dick's mother thought that she was a mighty sweet girl.

"Next week when I come to town I'll go ask your mother to let you stay over the week-end, Yetta," Dick's mother said.

On Monday Paula was all excited.

"Say," she announced during the little gabfest the girls had during the few minutes before nine, "didn't I tell you I'd knock 'em cold? I met the loveliest young man—and what do you think?"

"You handed him a line," Dick said.

"He—he just insisted on introducing himself, and he's wonderful—what do you think—he's a producer!"

"Producer?" Mitzi asked.

"Sure."

Paula tossed her head. "He's a theatrical producer, he has his own company, he told me all about it—he's put on hundreds of shows and, well, of course he's awfully wealthy."

"Gee—he might put you on the stage!" Mitzi gasped.

Paula talked about her new boy friend all the week. She met him once in town and had what she called a "heavy date" with him for the next Saturday.

Dick took Yetta out to his people's farm for the week-end and this time Yetta noticed a big picture of the boss—the head of the corporation where she and Dick worked in the Nally parlor.

There were two other pictures of Mr. Trafton, the boss, in the family album.

The following week Paula could talk of nothing else except her friend, Mr. Stanton, the big theatrical producer. To hear Paula tell it, she was already on the verge of matrimony and her Mr. Stanton was worth a flock of millions.

AN ENGAGEMENT RING

Mitzi envied Paula so much that her work got quite sloppy and she was reprimanded.

Yetta plugged along quite happy. In fact, she had never been so happy before. Dick was making love to her, the sort of honest, sincere love that a wise girl appreciates.

"Humph," Paula told Yetta, "that's nothing to be pleased about. Dick never'll amount to a thing, he just jumps about from one job to another, he won't get nowhere!"

"He will so!" Yetta declared. "And I suppose you'd be sap enough to marry him?"

Paula was quite sarcastic.

"I might," Yetta admitted.

For some sudden reason, Paula felt a bit jealous. Dick hadn't seemed to mind it at all when she so coldly turned him down.

"Yeah . . . you might, if he asked you," sneered Paula.

Paula gasped and then grinned.

Yetta laughed. Paula took a second look at the ring.

"For Pete's sake," Paula cried, "if that's a genuine diamond, Dick will be in hock the rest of his life, payin' for it!"

"It's paid for—I was with him and picked it out," Yetta said, quietly.

"At the five and ten?"

"How green your eyes are," she said, sweetly.

Several other girls laughed, and Paula lost her temper.

"As if I'd marry an office slave like Dick," she cried. "When Tim and I are married you'll see me livin' on Park avenue, with servants and everything."

"Having servants, and cars and yachts, and everything, and entertaining all the big theatrical stars—you'll see!"

"Good!" said Yetta.

Then came the date for the annual picnic of the employes of this big company. It was always a great event. The corporation may have been as soulless as all corporations are said to be, but Mr. Trafton took the employes out on his private yacht each year and down the sound to his summer place, where the picnic was held on his private beach, and he always had some unusual entertainment. Sometimes it would be a theatrical troupe, or a small circus or something of the sort.

This year, it was announced, the entertainment would be a miniature "Coney Island" with all sorts of entertainment.

SURPRISING NEWS

On the way down Paula learned some surprising news. First that Dick and Yetta were to be married in September and go abroad. The other piece of news was that Dick was really the nephew of Mr. Trafton and, in time, would become one of the officials of the company.

"That's lovely, Yetta," Paula declared, "and when I'm married to Tim, I'll probably meet you these great theatrical producers are in the very best society, always, you know."

Paula talked about her great theatrical producer constantly until they landed at the Trafton place and finally went to that part of the grounds where the miniature Coney Island show was being put on.

She wished she hadn't, for there was Mr. Timothy Stanton in front of his show tent and over it was his sign:

STANTON'S PERFORMING FLEAS.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1931

The Metropolitan Area

For the First Time Pittsburghers Are Given an Accurate Map of the Real City.

The real city of Pittsburgh, as disclosed yesterday in the Census Bureau's report on our metropolitan area, is unlike the political subdivision called Pittsburgh. In population it is almost three times as great.

The map of the metropolitan area furnishes the first accurate picture we have had of the urban community centering here. Heretofore the limits of the area have been drawn arbitrarily without regard to the real elements constituting such an area. Under the new plan we have a true measurement of the city's extent.

Ten years ago the surveyors of the metropolitan area arbitrarily drew their boundary lines within a 10-mile radius even though urban conditions extended uninterruptedly beyond that circle. In 1930 they did not fix points for the boundary line until they reached municipal units with a density of population of less than 150 to the square mile. Communities with less than the required density of population were included in the metropolitan area, however, if they directly adjoined the corporate municipality of Pittsburgh or were almost surrounded by other municipalities in the area which had the required density.

Under this satisfactory arrangement several of the outlying townships of Allegheny County are barred from the metropolitan area, but on the other hand considerable sections of Washington, Beaver, Westmoreland and Fayette counties are included.

With density of population as the criterion we have a metropolitan area with 1,930,111 inhabitants. That is the true population of Greater Pittsburgh, and it is of a size that is bound to command respect, to increase the city's prestige, and to enhance its importance as a trading center.

An Ill-Advised Strike

The Board of Public Education is paying the street car fare in only one direction for Hays and Lincoln Place school children attending the Gladstone Junior and Taylor Allderdice High Schools. Parents of the children assert the board is bound under the law to pay the fares for the round trip.

At the instigation of their parents about 300 children went on strike yesterday against the board's policy. They absented themselves from school and paraded with placards demanding car fare.

The parents are encouraging the children to show disrespect for the school authorities, which may lead to their showing disrespect for law and government and discipline.

The proper way to settle the dispute is through a frank talk with the board, if that is not satisfactory, through court procedure.

Sound Policy

We Commend to the Public Service Commission a Principle Indorsed by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has prepared for the information of its officers and employes a statement of its view of other forms of transportation. The first principle which it lays down is this:

"The public is entitled to the benefit of all real progress in transportation, whether in the form of greater convenience, or lower real costs, or both."

We congratulate the Pennsylvania on this broad-minded and sensible view, and commend the principle to the consideration of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Public Service Commission.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company is violating the principle, with the consent of the Public Service Commission, in charging 25 cents for a 10 cent bus ride on its Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company busses.

It is charging the extortionate fare in order to compel people to ride the street cars, which are not as satisfactory as the busses; and the Public Service Commission, by authorizing the 25 cent rate and by granting the company a monopoly of bus service in Pittsburgh, is letting the company get away with this shameful treatment of the people.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company is NOT giving the public the benefit of real progress in transportation, either in the form of greater convenience, or lower costs.

An Independent Jurist

The Public Is Fortunate in Having a Man of Judge Gray's Type to Pass on Election Cases.

Judge James H. Gray, of Common Pleas Court, handed down two decisions on Tuesday which bear witness anew to his uprightness, independence and regard for civic decency.

The decisions also call attention to the fact that Judge Gray is not under the control or influence of the corrupt Republican machine.

In one case Judge Gray put a stop to a questionable course of conduct that was being followed by the machine-controlled Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes. He signed a writ of mandamus requiring the board to certify lists of persons assessed for taxation, thus opening the lists to inspection by the Registration Commission, which charges fraud.

In the other case Judge Gray rebuked the "brazen effrontery" of a man with a criminal record, Mike De Rosa, Jr., son of the machine's Twelfth Ward chairman, in offering himself as a candidate for Alderman.

It is a horrible situation. However, the little lady has got the latest thing in hats, and that probably comforts her.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Why Not Live?

It is getting so that you have to keep the shades pulled down these days, to avoid seeing your neighbors commit suicide.

* * *

Every morning some woman wakes up and discovers that none of her hats is becoming, or that the man she loves has gone back to his wife and—ping!—another unsatisfied soul goes out into the great beyond.

* * *

Or a young man wakes up and faces the bitter fact that he will have to go to work for a living, or that all women's kisses are alike, or that the moths have gotten into his favorite golf stockings, and—Bang!—it is all over but the coroner's inquest.

We are all trying to get more THRILLS out of life than there are IN it.

* * *

You can't get more juice out of an orange, or more speed out of a car, or more money out of a purse than there is in it.

* * *

But we all seem to fancy that we are magicians, who can pull a pair of rabbits, a bolt of satin and a bridal bouquet out of a silk hat.

* * *

We all seem to be going through life with our feet on the accelerator and no pressure on the brakes or the steering wheel. We are stepping on the gas every minute and trying to take all the hills on high!

* * *

Life is full of thrills! But they are not continuous. Not every day is Christmas Day. There are long monotonous level spaces between the high spots, thank heaven!

* * *

Take love, for instance. It is life's carburetor. But it is not one long, eternal thrill. There must be moments between kisses—and not even in every kiss is there a kick.

Romance, sentiment and passion are the flowers of love, but they are as fragile and ephemeral as morning glories. The ROOTS of love are an abiding affection and tenderness lasting, satisfying and heart-warming, but not exciting. Yet most of us are vainly sneering at it, because it isn't all cut flowers.

* * *

And there is marriage. It is not one long honeymoon. Yet, even after it has settled down to a daily routine of coffee, kisses, there is a wonderful thrill in building a home, success, and a permanent and beautiful existence together.

* * *

Work, play, money, books, art, travel—all have their thrills, their dull moments—and their PRICE! Sometimes it's a long time between thrills but the "kick" is all the greater when it comes.

* * *

[illegible] go out and buy a bottle of prussic acid and stop, hope, just because you happen to wake up and find a dull morning on your hands. You can't get more thrills out of life than there are IN it! But stick around a while! Tomorrow may be your Big Moment!

Isn't It So?

An alien is any foreigner who makes more money than you do.

Times will change, whenever something happens to give people something else to think about.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The metropolitan financial world still feels keenly the loss of George F. Baker. In an era when fly-by-night banking by supposedly reputable banks has brought trusting investors to ruin, he seems a Gibraltar. He was the unswerving conservative, a gentleman of dignity and apparently the last of his ilk.

Mr. Baker was the prototype of the small town banker so many knew back yonder, wearing side wheel whiskers, barrel cuffs, black string ties and clothes of a sedate cut. He was a church goer, an inconspicuous giver to charity and a man whose personal habits were admirable.

He was the closest intimate of J. P. Morgan, Sr., and their banking ideas dovetailed although private lives were dissimilar. The First National Bank is today as when he took charge. While other banks shot up extravagant towers and spread out branches, it kept on in the old stand.

Many country banks occupy more imposing and impressive quarters. The office is not even on the ground floor. One walks up one flight to the counting room and there is no fleet of plunging elevators but only two or three for those desiring them. Compared to other banks it is actually shabby.

The building is at No. 2 Wall street and one of the landmarks of the street. There are no tile floors, marble labyrinths, plumed menials or glittering brass signs. Every employe blends with the setting, all quietly diffusing an atmosphere of rare conservatism.

The president sits in full view at an old-time roll top desk. Anyone may see him at any time without running a gantlet of starchy secretaries. And in comparison to the ludicrous list of vice presidents in many banks, the First National has a total of three.

There are eight directors. In 1901 it declared a 1,800 per cent dividend and yet the capital has remained unchanged at $10,000,000. Mr. Baker believed banking to be one of the most sacred responsibilities and not a gesture in personal aggrandizement.

* * *

A few steps from the First National at Wall and Broad is The Little Grey House on the corner, officially J. P. Morgan and Co. In financial circles it is "the house that cracks the whip". The scars of the great bomb explosion are still on its front and are viewed daily by tourists. While the building is squat and unimpressive among surrounding spires, there is about it an intangible feeling of security.

* * *

The figures 23 are curiously interwoven in the house of Morgan. The only sign on its sturdy facade is "23". Hanover 2323 is the telephone number and members of the firm have on their letterheads only the engraved: "23 Wall Street."

* * *

Just as Indiana is America's literary belt, San Francisco is the cartoon belt. Among the list who originated or got their start there are: Jimmie Swinnerton, Robert Ripley, Herb Roth, Rube Goldberg, Bud Fisher, Russ Westover, F. G. Cooper, Rea Irvin, Hype Igoe, Bob Edgren, Homer Davenport, Robert Carter and, of course, the lamented Tad Dorgan. The illustrators include Henry Raleigh, Gordon Grant and Harold Van Schmidt. However, one San Francisco cartoonist reversed the usual procedure. Dorman H. Smith went to the Golden Gate from New York. And clicked.

* * *

Nevsa McMein is credited with touching off the revival of croquet that swept country estates around New York this summer. The renaissance is even more pronounced than pin-pong which spurted into such sudden favor that a ping-pong shop opened on a fashionable stretch of Madison. Among celebrity croquetists are Herbert Bayard Swope, Alexander Woolcott—why should I waste an extra "l"? Clifton Webb, George Abbott, Jeff Machamer and the Marx brothers.

* * *

Ping pong, like the wrist watch, got off to a sissie start. It was supposed to be for youths who tsk-er about with a hand lightly on hip. Professional athletes declare that it has become a better general exercise method than punching the bag.

* * *

From a London book review: "America has made no important contribution to literature since 'Babbitt.' Its established writers are in complete stagnation and there is not even a promising hack on the horizon."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Of course she is faded now but you can see she was a beautiful girl. And so bright. She could do wonders if she didn't have a man like that hanging on to her.

He's just a bad tempered bore. Always grumbling about something. Hasn't the slightest appreciation of her fine brain. Downright mean to her, too. The neighbors say she often looks as if she had been crying. Some of them have advised her to divorce him. They haven't any children and she could probably get along finely. But she won't hear of it. She just laughs it off, with that brave hurt look she has.

The neighbors are awfully sorry for her. Everywhere she goes, people are sorry for her and try to make things nice for her. They always say the same thing:

"How can she stand him? Such a remarkable woman—married for 15 years to a creature like that! Poor thing—it must have been a hell on earth!"

When I hear people say that, I wonder to myself: I wonder if it really was such a hell—

You see, I know her. We were girls together. She was a strange girl. Very pretty and bright. You'd think she would have been popular. But she wasn't. There was something about her—

She always seemed a little offended. Or as if she expected to be offended. And she did queer things. When the rest of us were having a good, noisy time, she would suddenly stalk off, not saying a word, looking like Lady Macbeth. Of course that made the rest of us feel funny. You can't very well go on laughing with a thing like that happening around you. And she never would explain what was the matter with her. Or sometimes, when everybody else was being quiet and lazy, she would start jumping around in outlandish ways. You couldn't help noticing her. But mostly she seemed hurt. As if she wanted something she wasn't getting—

Looking back at it now, I suspect she just wanted attention. As a matter of fact, she was pretty and bright enough to be as popular as the rest of the girls. But just regular popularity didn't suit her.

She used to talk to me a great deal about herself, about how sensitive she was. I thought I was sensitive, too, and I wanted to talk about my sensitiveness as much as she wanted to talk about hers but she always beat me to it.

Boys didn't like her. You know how boys are. They don't like anything different. She was certainly different.

Then suddenly she married that queer Jim Wilson. No one could guess why. He was horrid to her, right from the start, and everyone began being sorry for her. Now they say she's had 15 years of hell. But all I know is, she's had 15 years of attention, and attention was the best thing she wanted.

Maybe you'll think I'm a cat, but I wonder if that wasn't why she married him—just to be different, to make herself seem important. She never could be important enough to suit her in regular ways, but you can always hog the spotlight if you're a martyr.

There are people like that. They actually get a big bang out of suffering. They work at it overtime. Well, it's one way of getting an audience.

Habit and Custom Furnish Rules Governing Humans

By BRAND WHITLOCK

(From the "Little Green Shutter," by Brand Whitlock, published by D. Appleton & Co.)

(Copyright, 1931, by Brand Whitlock.)

"LAW: Its Origin, Growth and Function," was written by the late James Coolidge Carter, a leading member of the New York bar.

If this admirable work could be prescribed by our literary dictators as the book of the month for a year or two, our deep thinkers might learn something to their advantage, though it probably would have little effect upon our reformers.

There is a certain mysticism about them, and especially about the prohibitionist, with which reason, facts and experience are all powerless to deal.

To me, it is one of the wisest and most illuminating books I have ever read, and one of the most interesting.

Carter was a very practical and highly successful practitioner, and one of the leading corporation lawyers of his time, which is the American equivalent for taking silk and becoming a K. C.

HABIT and custom furnish the rules that govern human conduct, and the principal function of legislation is to supplement and aid the operation of custom; legislation can never supplant custom, and the efficiency of legislation depends upon its conformity to habit and custom.

Society cannot exist without it, or exist without producing it. Ubi societas ibi lex. Law, therefore, is self-created and self-existent.

IT IS NOT, THEREFORE, POSSIBLE TO MAKE LAW BY LEGISLATIVE ACTION. Its utmost power is to offer a reward or threaten a punishment as a consequence of particular conduct, and thus furnish an additional motive to influence conduct.

I CANNOT resist the temptation to quote two or three paragraphs that are pertinent.

"The principal danger (he says), lies in the attempt often made to convert into crimes acts regarded by large numbers, perhaps a majority, as innocent—that is to practice what is, in fact, TYRANNY.

"When a law is made declaring conduct widely practiced and widely regarded as innocent to be a crime, the evil consequences which arise upon attempts to enforce it are apt to be viewed as the consequences of the forbidden practice, and not of the attempt to suppress it; and it is believed that the true method of avoiding, or doing away with, these consequences is to press the efforts at enforcement with increased energy.

"BUT WHEN A MISTAKE HAS BEEN MADE, ITS CONSEQUENCES CANNOT BE AVOIDED BY A MORE VIGOROUS PERSISTENCE IN IT.

"THE species of criminal legislation to which sumptuary laws belong furnishes an apt illustration of them.

"It suits the judgment of some and the temper of others to convert the practices they deem so mischievous into crimes and they think that if nothing else will prevent indulgence in them, the fear of heavy punishment will at least be effective, and indeed many think that the force of law is so great that the mere enactment of a prohibition will accompany the desired end, and all are inclined to believe that even if the laws are ineffective for the purpose for which they were enacted, they will at least do no harm.

"The law when enacted will not execute itself. It requires the active interposition of man to put it in force. Evidence must be found and prosecutions set in motion, and as this is a task in which good men are commonly found to be unwilling, or too indolent, to engage voluntarily, others must be sought for who will undertake it.

"The spy and informer are hired, but their testimony is open to much impeachment, and is met by opposing testimony often false and perjured.

"The trials become scenes of perjury and subordination of perjury and juries find abundant excuses for rendering verdicts of acquittal or persisting in disagreements, contrary to their oaths.

"THE whole machinery of enforcement fails, or, if it succeeds at all, it is in particular places only, while in others the law is violated with impunity . . . .

"PERHAPS THE WORST OF ALL IS THAT THE GENERAL REGARD AND REVERENCE FOR LAW ARE IMPAIRED, a consequence the mischief of which can scarcely be estimated . . . .

"What a spectacle is thus afforded by the impotence of man's conscious effort to overrule the silent and irresistible forces of nature!

"He wholly fails to gain the object in view; but objects not in view, and by no means desired, are brought about on the largest scale. LAW AND ITS ADMINISTRATION BROUGHT INTO PUBLIC CONTEMPT . . . animosity created between different bodies of citizens, rendering them incapable of acting together for confessedly good objects!"

Carter wrote these words a quarter of a century ago, before national prohibition was seriously considered, but he couldn't have described its results more accurately if he had written them today.

(To Be Continued)

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

"I hate Miss So and So—she knows too much," exclaimed a young girl.

And it was true, that this particular woman was always ready with a remedy or a suggestion, and usually good ones.

But it is pretty hard for a person with knowledge and experience and a generous spirit to keep still and let others make mistakes when a word or two might straighten things out.

What kind of a mind have you to resent advice?

It indicates conceit, a desire for personal admiration or approval and jealousy of the one who can do better.

"Where did she get it?"—"How can she know so much more than I?"

In this particular case the woman has a good memory and a thirst for knowledge and coupled with interest in a broad range of subjects, means a full mind.

If you resent the aid offered you, you will miss many opportunities to learn.

MASS MEETING TO BE HELD SEPT. 11

Small Property Owner Is Treated Unfairly, Larger Ones Favored, Is Charged

Aroused by a series of six protest meetings, 200 Wilkins Township property owners will petition the County Commissioners to order the Board of Tax Revision to make a survey of assessments in the township, at a mass meeting September 11, in Turtle Creek High School.

Petitions are now being circulated in the district following the declaration of Attorney William N. McNair, Pittsburgh single-tax advocate, that if vacant areas in the township were assessed on the same basis as the small home owner, there would be no unemployment problem. He said:

"Should the vacant properties be assessed their actual value, the owners would be anxious to get rid of their holdings. As a result, the property would be placed on the market at a reasonable rate.

"Small home owners would buy the property and build homes. When we have construction, we do not have unemployment."

Indorsement of the graded tax plan has been given by Andrew McKeever, township tax collector and candidate for County Treasurer, who said that if the large landowners were assessed at the same rate as the small home owners, the township's valuation would be doubled.

John Cabot

In 1497, John Cabot, a Venetian living in England, accompanied by his son, tried to find India, sailing to the north. Starting from England, they reached our continent probably at Labrador or Newfoundland. It was on the voyages of the Cabots that England based her claim to the northern and middle section of North America.

FOUR FACTIONS ENTER SLATES IN BRADDOCK PRIMARIES

FIGHTS BITTER AS ELECTION DATE NEARS

Two Separate Independent Groups Present Tickets; Home Rule Clan Strong

In addition to two regular factions in Braddock, the regular Republicans, known as the Home Rule group, and the offshoot from the regular Republicans, called the minority group, at least two separate independent groups have drawn up slates for the primary September 15. With election less than two weeks away, the entire slate is incomplete and the fight gives promise of being one of the most bitter in the history of the Hill borough.

The Home Rule group is conceded to be strong. Backed by the First Ward and Third Ward Republican clubs, as well as the strong North Braddock Slovak Social Club, candidates are not worrying as much as those on the slates of the minority Republicans and the independent ranks. All of these have their backing, however.

COUNCIL CANDIDATES

JUSTICE OF PEACE

The Home Rule ticket candidate for Justice of the Peace is Charles Richards. Running under the minority banner is William Porter, incumbent. Clarence C. Martin, former school director, is the independent candidate.

Morgan S. Harrity, secretary of the North Braddock school board and former councilman, is a candidate with D. Newton Greer, incumbent, for the office of school director on the Home Rule ticket. Peter Beveridge, incumbent, is a minority candidate, and Matthew Koontz and A. G. Wallace, who is a former school board secretary, are running as independents.

I. Newton Hunnell, police officer of North Braddock, is backed by the Home Rule ticket for constable in the Third Ward. Clifford Sarver, incumbent, is running under the minority banner, and Carl Nelson as an independent.

In the Second Ward, P. J. Finnerty is the Home Rule candidate. John Duhon, former chief of police of North Braddock, is the minority candidate for constable from this ward. In the First Ward, George Guidus is the Home Rule candidate.

Rankin Regular G. O. P. Has Little Opposition

The regular Republican organization, with practically no opposition in Rankin, in addition to indorsing the county organization candidates, has the following slate, all candidates seeking re-election:

BOOSTERS BACK IMPROVEMENT PROGRAMS

Extension of Three Roads Out of Turtle Creek Urged; Street Widening Sought

Westinghouse Boosters' Association is out to get nearly $200,000 worth of improvements for the district it represents. Most important in its list of objectives is the extention of three roads out of Turtle Creek to provide direct connections with Greensburg pike, William Penn highway and Lincoln highway at an estimated cost of $100,000, according to P. D. McLean, president.

Widening of Lynn avenue, Turtle Creek, from Sycamore street to Monroeville road, eliminating dangerous curves, is included at a probable cost of $55,000.

If the Boosters' program is carried out, Wall avenue in Wall will be resurfaced from Moss Side boulevard to Wilmerding at a cost of $20,000. This improvement would provide a direct connection with the Lincoln highway at East McKeesport.

McLeon has announced also that the Union Railroad has agreed to construct a retaining wall along its tracks in Penn avenue extension, Wilmerding, if that street should be improved and extended to Wilmerding pike.

Investigation Reveals That Almost All Children Contract the Disease and Never Know It!

FEW people know that hardly any youngster goes through childhood without being attacked by the germ of infantile paralysis . . . Almost all children contract the disease but most of them never know it . . . In its early stages it may appear to be no different than an insignificant little Summer upset such as any child may have in a season . . . The disease goes further and the dreaded paralysis develops in only one case out of perhaps a thousand.

The photographs shown above explain the main symptoms of the illness . . . Do you want to know what causes them? . . . How exposure can be avoided? . . . At what age a child is safe? . . . What can be done to save the victims from death or permanent injury? . . . You will find all these facts in an article prepared from authoritative information obtained from Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Health of New York City, and Dr. William H. Park, of the City's Health Department, Bureau of Laboratories . . . MARION NIXON AND EDDIE QUILLAN IN "SWEEPSTAKES"

Short Story -:- The Call at Dawn

By CHARLES SLOAN REID

Sam Hodge was a wiry little mountaineer, five feet four, but with a diaphragm expansion of six inches. He could send forth a yell that would come back in half a dozen angles of echo from as many ravines for more than a mile around.

Sam's yell was as clear as the shriek of a high-keyed bell whistle on a locomotive. The mountain folks knew it above all others, for Sam used it as a sort of herald of his departure from camp at one or another of his various camp sites along the mountain road, at any early hour of the morning. Hodge was a wagoner—his business was hauling corundum from the mines to the railroad shipping point, a distance of 21 miles.

Corundum was heavy stuff, and it was shipped in stout, sawed-off barrels carrying from seven to nine hundred pounds of the pulverized ore. But Hodge handled the barrels with ease, conducting his drayage business alone, and for the munificent sum of 30 cents a hundred pounds of delivered material.

Sam had not spent a night under a roof, other than the canvas which covered the bow frame of his wagon, in more than four years. He spent his nights, as well as his days, in the open, both summer and winter. The pair of mules which he drove to the wagon, and a halfbreed bull terrier were his only companions, except when the bobcats and cub bears would nose about his camp in the night.

Hodge laughed good-naturedly and began to spread out the paper before him. The announcements were in barndoor letters: "County Fair, Seneca, S. C. Oct. 25th, 26th and 27th. Horse Show and Big Carnival."

"Dadburn yuhr grandmammy's picture!" vociferated Hodge. "Ain't never been to one o' them things but dinged ef hit ain't jest afore I'm goin' to!"

Folding the paper he laid it back in the wagon. Later he examined the announcements more in detail. The carnival promised a balloon ascension, a ferris wheel, a merry-go-round and a snake charmer, as well as numerous other things. The more Sam thought over the matter of going to the fair the more excited he became over the prospect. Among other announcements, too, was one that said the big new Seneca Hotel, three stories high, would be thrown open to guests on the first day of the fair.

"By heck! I'll spend a night in thet boardin' house jest for greens!" Sam decided, and he laughed over the thought of sleeping in a real bed one more time.

At home he dug up a suit of clothes he hadn't seen in four years. His mother brushed it up for him and sewed on a few buttons that had come off during his last frolic over at Ticktown.

The leaves were turning in the woods, and the mountainsides were rich in their harmonious display of reds, greens and yellows. Hodge was a lover of nature without knowing it. He liked to drive along the mountain road and feast his gaze on the changing panorama of the hillsides about him. They never grew old to him, though they passed him in review day after day.

After delivering his load of corumdum at the station Hodge drove on to Seneca, a distance of eight miles, where he found a stable in which to stand his mules. Here he left the dog to stand guard over the team, set out for the fair grounds. Roaming at will he gazed upon every attraction to his fill, spending a quarter here and a half dollar there, with the air of a coal-oil magnate.

Later in the afternoon he decided that he had seen enough, and began to thirst for the smell of the woods, the bark of the cat squirrels in the tall chestnut oaks, and the rollicking clear call of the woodcocks from the deep ravines. But there still was one attraction. He felt that he must spend a night in the new hotel. Sauntering back to town, he walked around two sides of the great three-story structure, and counted the windows in the front side of it.

When asked to put his name on the register, he hesitated. "What for?" he asked.

All the signing Sam ever had done was receipts for the loads of corundum delivered to him at the mine—and that act carried responsibility.

"Oh, nothing, except that we want everybody's name that camps with us," the clerk said.

Sam laboriously scrawled his name, and the clerk assigned a room. The room in which Hodge now found himself was one on the second floor. There was a window looking upon an inner court where some shrubbery had been set. Sight of the shrubbery soothed the mountaineer, and he turned toward the bed which was white and fluffy in appearance. Sam placed his hand upon the center of it, and leaned forward. The great depression thus made amused him.

The bed was so seductive that Sam remembered nothing after his head had gone back on the pillow. At 4:30 the following morning, which was just about an hour before daylight, something happened at the new Seneca Hotel.

The most unearthly yell that any in that house ever had heard reverberated throughout the big hostelry from top floor to basement. The guests turned out in every condition of habilliment. The night watchman, an old darkey, who had been passing Sam Hodge's room at the time, turned three somersaults trying to reach the first stairway at the earliest possible moment.

Many of the guests dragged their trunks, hand bags and other belongings after them, and the hallways presented a motley array of excited humanity. Sam Hodge himself had sat up in bed, and was passing the fingers of both hands through his hair, as he tried to determine just where he was.

Many and bitter were the complaints registered, when it was discovered that the yell had proceeded from the little mountaineer's room, and half an hour later Sam had been escorted to the town guard-house. His appearance before the Mayor added another experience to the schedule of his two-days' leave.

"You are charged with disturbing the peace," said the Mayor.

"Dinged ef I know," agreed Sam. "I reckon I did fotch a yell. It was this way, fellers—I haul corumdum, an' don't never sleep in no houses. I dreamp I was campin', same as always, an' when I got hitched up, I yelled—thet's all. I ain't drunk."

"Are you in the habit of yelling when you get hitched up, out on the mountains?"

"All right, Hodge," agreed the Mayor, "I'm going to let you off free, if you will give us one more yell right now, like the one that woke up the guests at four-thirty. You see, I live across town, and didn't get to hear the original."

Sam Hodge grinned. Then his chest swelled, and a yell issued from his throat that would have done credit to a Commanche Indian in pioneer days. A number of the bystanders thrust their fingers into their ears, while the rest clapped their hands in rounds of applause.

"Well, I'm dinged!" exclaimed Hodge. Then he added: "S'long, fellers; I'm going back to the mountains, where the neighbors is a long way apart, and the bob-cats don't mind."

'Human Pin Cushion' Experiences No Pain

LORAIN, O.—(INS.)—Walter Easler, called the "human pin cushion" by Lorainites, can pierce his face and arms with needles without suffering any pain, at least not enough to say "ouch." "Sensory anaesthesia" is the name given Easler's remarkable case. The doctors point out, however, that Easler faces a peril by not having any "feeling" in his nervous system in that he might develop appendicitis or acute indigestion or some other form of illness in which pain is the chief warning, and never notice it until the illness became critical.

REMARQUE!

ERICH MARIA REMARQUE, who out of his own soul-searing experiences as a young private soldier in the German Army wrote that war-time epic of all nations, "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT," has written a post-war novel which he calls, appropriately enough, "THE ROAD BACK." This book, hailed by many critics as superior to Remarque's first great work, is concerned with the period of readjustment in the lives of soldiers returned from the front. Undoubtedly, "THE ROAD BACK" is written from Remarque's own experiences, and those of his friends. But, just as in the case of "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT," it speaks for all returned soldiers. It is a story without national boundaries. Like its predecessor, it is of universal appeal. It is the story of the lost generation and of erstwhile heroes returned to live in an epoch of disillusionment.

Since Remarque wrote "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT," in 1928, it has sold 3,500,000 copies on all quarters of the globe. It has been translated into every modern language. A remarkable literary achievement, beyond boundaries, nationalities, hates and creeds, it contained a message that the peoples of every land have deeply understood.

"THE ROAD BACK" carries the same universal appeal. It makes articulate the emotions and thoughts of the returned soldier. It tells the inner story of the soldier you know, the man who still lives and carries on.

If you thrilled to the story of the youths who fought in "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT," you will be even more deeply stirred by the story of the survivors' struggle with a changed world, as told by Remarque in—
